Ownership

Daniel M. Snyder

Redskins Owner

Since assuming ownership of the Washington Redskins in 1999, becoming the 69-year-old franchise's fourth owner, Daniel Snyder has instilled a renewed sense of energy and purpose to the Redskins, both on the field and in the team's business dealings.

During his first two years as owner, the organization's new marketing and business focus has resulted in the Redskins' rapid rise to become the nation's most valuable sports franchise, as calculated by Forbes magazine. In 1999 he was named "Owner of the Year" by Sport magazine and now serves on the National Football League's Broadcast Committee. Snyder is also co-owner of Washington's new Arena Football League franchise, which is scheduled to begin play in 2003.

On January 3, 2001, Daniel Snyder started a new chapter in Redskins history when he welcomed Marty Schottenheimer as the team's 22nd Head Coach. The two men share an undeniable commitment to excellence, and a fierce determination to lead the Washington Redskins to a Super Bowl Championship. "Dan Snyder is committed to winning, and so am I," said Schottenheimer upon his arrival in the nation's capital. The Redskins organization and the fans of Washington will settle for nothing less.

Outside of the Redskins, Snyder continues his involvement with numerous business ventures, drawing on his entrepreneurial stewardship of Snyder Communications, Inc., the company he founded in 1985. During his 15 years of leadership, Snyder Communications grew into a global organization of 12,000 employees, 77 offices in 16 countries, and more than $1 billion in annual revenues. The company's leading role in providing its Fortune 500 client base with targeted marketing solutions led to its acquisition in 2000 by the French marketing firm Havas for more than $2.3 billion, at the time the largest such merger in the history of the advertising/marketing industry. Snyder is believed to be the largest individual shareholder of Havas.

Snyder directed the creation of Ventiv Health, Inc., an independent company spun-off from Snyder Communications, and currently serves as Chairman of the Board. He also maintains significant and active roles in a number of young companies that benefit from his marketing and financial acumen.

Involvement in the community has always been a priority for Snyder and his family. He serves on the Board of Directors of Washington's Children's National Medical Center (Children's Hospital), where his financial support enabled construction of the Snyder Family Emergency Medicine and Trauma Center. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, where he funded construction of the center's Daniel M. Snyder and Family Communications Center. The Center handles the thousands of calls received each week from law enforcement organizations, parents of missing children, runaways seeking help, and people responding to the Center's well-known awareness campaign on behalf of missing children.

Snyder also serves on the Board of Directors of Ted Forstmann's Campaign for America's Children, as well as the Washington Board of Trade, and is a member of Business Executives for National Security.

In January 2000, he founded the Washington Redskins Leadership Council, an innovative $1 million charitable partnership between the team and prominent Washington-area business leaders including Fred Smith, Chairman, President and CEO of FedEx Corp.; J.W. Marriott, Jr., CEO of Marriott International; John Morton, President, Mid-Atlantic Banking Group, Bank of America; and C.E. Andrews, Managing Partner, Mid-Atlantic Markets, for Arthur Andersen.

The Council uses the significant presence and leverage of the Redskins organization and the resources of its partners to fund and further community projects. After just one year, the Leadership Council is already making a significant impact throughout the region. Its four signature programs, Redskins Read, Fields for Tomorrow, Redskins All-Stars and the 4th & Life High School Football Forum have reached into communities throughout Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, benefiting local children and their families.

Michele Snyder

In the early days of Daniel M. Snyder's business career, at Snyder Communications in Bethesda, Maryland, three individuals were among his closest advisors and supporters. Throughout his business career, and extending into his ownership of the Washington Redskins, they remain key advisors.

Long time business partner Fred Drasner and family members Michele Snyder and Gerry Snyder are the key individuals Daniel Snyder turns to before launching a business initiative or making a critical business decision. They are partners, advisors, and confidants, each performing a distinctive role.

Drasner was the first in the business world to recognize the potential of Daniel Snyder when he arranged the initial financing of Snyder Communications. The two have since engaged in several other joint business ventures.

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Drasner is a self-made man with tremendous drive and ambition. In the latter two qualities, as well as in his business vision, he has found a great affinity with the Redskins owner. Drasner also directs several businesses including Applied Graphics Technologies, Applied Printing Technologies, U.S. News & World Report, the New York Daily News, and Fast Company magazine, with combined revenues of over $1.3 billion.

Daniel Snyder's sister Michele, a founder of Snyder Communications, shares his ambitious spirit. Her creativity, operational skills and business instincts have played an instrumental role in the success of Team Snyder over the past 15 years.

A calm and steadying influence has been the contribution of Gerry Snyder, father of the Redskins' owner. In fact, from his father, Daniel Snyder has inherited his love of the Redskins. The elder Snyder has been one of the Redskins' most avid fans for over three decades. He frequently attended games at RFK and took Daniel to his first Redskin game in 1971.

A long-time journalist and author with many books to his credit, Gerry Snyder was Editor-in-Chief of Snyder Communications during the early years of Daniel Snyder's phenomenal business career.

Coaches and Staff

Marty Schottenheimer

Head Coach and Director of Football Operations 25th NFL Season/1st Redskins

On January 3, 2001, Redskins Owner Daniel Snyder welcomed Marty Schottenheimer as the franchise's 22nd Head Coach, beginning a new chapter in Redskins history. Schottenheimer, who will also serve as Director of Football Operations, comes to Washington with a distinguished pedigree of football accomplishments, having led his teams to an impressive 150-96 record over 14 seasons in the NFL.

Marty Schottenheimer returns to coaching after a two-year hiatus working as an NFL analyst for ESPN. He will tell anyone who asks that he only had to sit up in the press box for a single game at Arrowhead Stadium, before realizing he wanted to be back on the sidelines, directing an NFL football game. That fierce, competitive drive and desire to win are hallmarks of Schottenheimer's NFL coaching career, and traits he looks to instill in his new team as the Redskins prepare for the 2001 season. With many new names on both his coaching and player roster, Schottenheimer will look to improve upon the team's 8-8 record last season. His primary goal: to compete for a World Championship, the overriding reason for playing this game, according to the Redskins head coach.

The new coach worked quickly to put his own stamp on the Redskins staff, assembling an experienced corps of instructors that will help build the Redskins into a Super Bowl contender. As he announced his coaching staff, Coach Schottenheimer stressed two qualities each man possessed: they were excellent teachers and they demanded the very best effort of their players, 100% of the time. A number of the new coaches have worked with Schottenheimer before, including offensive coordinator Jimmy Raye (KC 1992-98), defensive coordinator Kurt Schottenheimer (Cleveland 1986-88, KC 1989-98), offensive line coach Joe Pendry (Cleveland 1985-88, KC 1989-92), special teams coach Mike Stock (KC 1995-98) and strength and conditioning coach Dave Redding (Cleveland 1982-88, KC 1989-98). Each found great success working alongside Marty Schottenheimer, and look forward to a successful campaign in 2001 and years to come.

Over his fourteen-year coaching career, Marty Schottenheimer has established the 12th best career winning record among coaches with more than 100 career victories at 150-96-1. He coached twelve straight teams to winning records, leading his teams to the playoffs in eleven of his 14 full seasons as a head coach. He led three of those teams to division titles.

Prior to joining the Redskins, Schottenheimer's most recent coaching position was as Head Coach of the Kansas City Chiefs for ten seasons (1989-98). During his tenure, the Chiefs posted a 101-58-1 regular season record, and the resulting .634 winning percentage was the second highest in the NFL, behind the San Francisco 49ers. In his ten seasons with the Chiefs, Schottenheimer's teams averaged ten wins a season. They advanced to the playoffs seven times, making Kansas City one of the AFC's most dominant teams of the 1990s.

Under his leadership, the Chiefs captured the AFC West crown in 1993, '95 and '97, posting the conference's best record in '95 and '97, when the team was 13-3. In 1990, Schottenheimer directed the Chiefs to an 11-5 record, the club's best mark in 21 years. He also led the team into postseason play for just the second time since 1971 and the first time since 1986. Kansas City continued to build strength in 1993, when the Chiefs enjoyed their finest season since the 1969 World Championship campaign. Schottenheimer led the Chiefs to an 11-5 record and their first division title since 1971. In 1997, his Chiefs finished the regular season with an NFL-best 13-3 record, earning Kansas City its third AFC Western Division title in five years. Schottenheimer's Kansas City teams were consistently among the League's very best in five important areas: winning percentage within the division, winning percentage at home, turnovers, rushing offense and scoring defense.

Before Kansas City, Schottenheimer was the Head Coach of the Cleveland Browns (1985-88). During his four full seasons with Cleveland, Schottenheimer produced four playoff berths, three AFC Central titles, and two AFC championship appearances. In his first year at the helm, he led the team to the AFC Central title. The following season, he earned consensus NFL Coach of the Year honors, after leading his team to a 12-4 regular season record, a second straight division championship and a trip to the AFC Championship game.

Schottenheimer began his coaching career with the Portland Storm of the World Football League in 1974. He opened that season as a player, but a shoulder injury ended his playing career, although he did continue to tutor the team's linebackers. In 1975, he earned his first NFL coaching job with the New York Giants as linebackers coach, brought on board by Bill Arnsparger, now a Redskins defensive assistant. Two seasons later, he was promoted to defensive coordinator. Schottenheimer joined the Detroit Lions as linebackers coach for the 1978 campaign, where he remained for two seasons before being named defensive coordinator of the Cleveland Browns in 1980. He was named Head Coach of the Browns mid-way through the 1984 season.

Schottenheimer began his professional career on the playing field, selected in the fourth round of the 1965 NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts, and the seventh round of the AFL draft by the Buffalo Bills. He signed with the Bills and played with the team from 1965-68. In his rookie season, Schottenheimer got his first taste of a pro football championship when the Bills won the American Football League Championship in 1965. He joined the Boston Patriots in 1969, playing two seasons before being traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1971. After working out with the Steelers during their 1971 training camp, Schottenheimer was traded to the Colts, and he retired shortly thereafter.

At the University of Pittsburgh, Schottenheimer was an All-American linebacker, and a member of Pitt's All-

Time Team. He played in the 1965 College All-Star Game at Soldier Field in Chicago (Browns beat All-Stars, 24-16). In that game, he played alongside Dick Butkus, Fred Biletnikoff, Roger Staubach, Bob Hayes and Bill Curry.

Schottenheimer's athletic accomplishments formally began at Ft. Cheery High School in McDonald, PA, where he was an honor student and football/basketball standout. He was an All-Western Pennsylvania linebacker on the football squad and the center on the state championship basketball team. He then began his college career at Pitt, where he earned his degree in English.

Schottenheimer is a licensed pilot and flew with the Navy's Blue Angels in February of 1992 and the Air Force's Thunderbirds in July of 1997.

Born in Canonsburg, PA, Marty and his wife, Pat, have two children: Kristen and Brian, now the quarterbacks coach with the Redskins. The Schottenheimers live in Reston, VA.

John Schneider

Vice President of Player Personnel
9th NFL Season/1st Redskins

John Schneider joins the Washington Redskins as Vice President of Player Personnel after being named to the position June 1, 2001 by Head Coach and Director of Football Operations Marty Schottenheimer. Schneider, 30, will be responsible for overseeing all aspects of the player personnel department, including college scouting, the college draft, pro scouting, free agency and the day-to-day player personnel evaluations and operations. He is charged with assembling and managing the full Redskins scouting staff, as well as advising Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer on all personnel matters.

Schneider comes to Washington after spending the 2000 season as the Player Personnel Director for the Seattle Seahawks, where he worked closely with Head Coach and General Manager Mike Holmgren. Previously, he spent three years in Kansas City (1997-99) as the Director of Pro Personnel, where he worked with current Redskins Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer, overseeing the Chiefs' scouting of all players with pro playing experience, including NFL Europe, the CFL, as well as the NFL. His role also included extensive advance scouting of all Chiefs' opponents as well as assisting in free agent acquisition.

Schneider began his NFL career with the Green Bay Packers (1992-96), spending five years working closely with Executive Vice President and General Manager Ron Wolf. During his tenure in Green Bay as the Assistant Director of Pro Personnel, he played an integral role in the signing of numerous free agents which assisted in the Packers climb to Super Bowl XXXI Champions.

A native of De Pere, WI, Schneider graduated from the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, MN, with degrees in history and education. As a prep at Abbot Pennings High School, he finished his career as one of the school's all-time leading rushers. John and his wife, Traci, reside in Ashburn, VA.

Pepper Rodgers

Vice President of Football Operations
2nd NFL Season/2nd Redskins

Franklin "Pepper" Rodgers is Vice President of Football Operations, where he works with Owner Daniel M. Snyder and Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer in the oversight of the football organization.

Rodgers brings years of college and professional experience to the position. In 22 years of college coaching, Rodgers earned more than 100 victories, amassing a 65-25-5 record as an assistant coach at Air Force, University of Florida and UCLA, and compiling a 70-60-3 record as head coach at University of Kansas, UCLA, and Georgia Tech. He also spent time coaching the Memphis teams of the USFL and the CFL.

Rodgers got his start in football as quarterback and placekicker for undefeated Georgia Tech and was named MVP of the 1954 Sugar Bowl. Pepper and his wife, Livingston, reside in Alexandria, VA.

Bobby Mitchell

Assistant General Manager

33rd NFL Season/33rd Redskins

A 1983 inductee into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Bobby Mitchell joined the Redskins' personnel staff in 1969 following his retirement as a player, at the encouragement of Vince Lombardi. He has risen through the organization's ranks, promoted to Director of Pro Scouting, then to Assistant to the President in 1978. In 1981, he was named Assistant General Manager, a position he has held to this day. With his playing and front office experience combined, Bobby has spent 43 years in the NFL, 39 with the Redskins.

Mitchell began his NFL career as an eighth round draft selection of the Cleveland Browns in 1958. After four seasons in Cleveland, he was traded to Washington in 1962, along with Leroy Jackson, for Ernie Davis (Washington's number one draft choice in 1962).

As a Brown and a Redskin, Mitchell gained 2,735 yards rushing on 513 attempts (5.3 avg.); 521 receptions for 7,953 yards (15.3 avg.), 69 punt returns for 699 yards (10.2 avg.), 102 kickoff returns for 2,690 yards (26.4 avg.). When he retired, his 14,078 total yards stood third in NFL history and his 92 touchdowns stood fifth all-time. He played in four Pro Bowls (one with Cleveland and three with Washington) over his 11-year playing career.

Mitchell's collegiate career was also one for the record books. A 1958 graduate of Illinois, he excelled at track and football. Bobby set a world record for the 70-yard low hurdles, and was also named an All-Big Ten halfback. He completed his college playing career as a co-recipient of the 1958 College All-Star Game MVP Trophy.

In addition to his 1983 induction to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, he has also been inducted into the District of Columbia Hall of Fame, the Arkansas Hall of Fame, the Hot Springs (Arkansas) School District Hall of Fame, the Touchdown Club Hall of Fame and the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium Hall of Stars. A glance through the list of "Who's Who Among Black Americans" would also reveal the name "Bobby Mitchell", as would any list recounting some of the NFL's greatest players.

Over and above his distinguished playing career, Bobby has established an equally distinguished reputation for himself in the Washington, D.C. community through his dedication and service. He has been affiliated with and chaired a host of causes, some of which include: The Boys and Girls Club of Washington; The Urban League; the NAACP; the Police Boys and Girls Clubs of Washington, D.C.; the Bike Federation and Advisory of the Variety Club of Greater Washington; the United Negro College Fund Radio Drive; the Howard University Cancer Research Advisory Committee; the American Lung Association; the Washington Board of Trade; the Friendship House; the Metropolitan Washington, D.C. Area Leadership Council; the Southern Financial Bank of Virginia Advisory Board; Joe Gibbs Youth Homes Board of Trustees; Plymouth Congregation Church Board of Trustees, Washington, D.C.; and the White House Task Force on Drugs. He has served as President of the Doug Williams Foundation and is also a past President of the NAMD (National Association of Marketing Developers).

The NFL Alumni Association honored Mitchell in 1998, presenting him with the Order of the Leather Helmet. The award is presented to individuals who have made significant contributions to the game of professional football. Mitchell also sits on the NFL Alumni Executive Committee and serves on the Advisory Board of the United Negro College Fund. His Bobby Mitchell Hall of Fame Golf Classic has raised more than $2 million for leukemia research. In 2000, he was honored for his unparalleled commitment to youth in the D.C. community with the dedication of Bobby Mitchell Field, a state-of-the-art football field in the heart of Anacostia's Congress Heights neighborhood in Washington, D.C.

The University of Illinois alumnus serves his alma mater as well. Mitchell is a member of the University's President's Council and is on the Board of Directors of the University of Illinois Foundation. He has received the University of Illinois Foundation National Network Outstanding Leadership Award, and is a member of the Advisory Board of the University Library.

A native of Hot Springs, AR, he is a 1954 Langston High School graduate. Bobby and his wife, Gwen, a Washington, D.C., lawyer, have two children: Terri, a graduate of Illinois and Howard University Graduate School of Education, and Robert C. Jr., who completed Stanford University and Georgetown Law School. The Mitchells live in Washington, D.C. and Manassas, VA.

Bill Arnsparger

Defensive Assistant
26th NFL Season/2nd Redskins

Coaching: Bill Arnsparger, one of the top defensive minds in NFL history, returns for his second tour with the Washington Redskins. With 26 years of NFL experience and 40 overall, he will assist defensive coordinator Kurt Schottenheimer. Arnsparger came out of retirement early in the 1999 season to serve as a Redskins defensive assistant.

Arnsparger's defensive wizardry has helped propel teams to five Super Bowls and three NFL titles. He first made a name for himself as the architect of Miami's "No Name Defense" in 1972, when the Dolphins finished 17-0 and beat the Redskins, 14-7, in Super Bowl VII. Miami allowed only 150 points in 1973, and Arnsparger received a game ball after the Dolphins beat Minnesota, 24-7, in Super Bowl VIII. He later developed Miami's "Killer Bs" defense in the early 1980s, when the Dolphins reached Super Bowl XVII but lost to the Redskins, 27-17. In all, Arnsparger's defenses were perennially among the league's best during his 12 seasons in Miami (1970-73, 1976-83).

As San Diego's defensive coordinator (1992-94), Arnsparger also made the Chargers defense into one of the league's most intimidating units. In 1992, the defense was ranked No. 2 in the AFC and No. 4 in the NFL after finishing 19th overall in 1991. The next season, San Diego led the NFL with a plus-15 turnover ratio and finished fifth with 22 interceptions. San Diego was ninth in the NFL in points allowed in 1994, when the Chargers reached Super Bowl XXIX.

In other NFL coaching stops, Arnsparger was a defensive assistant with the Baltimore Colts (1964-69). He was the New York Giants head coach from 1974 until midway through the 1976 season, when he rejoined Don Shula in Miami. In 1975, he hired Marty Schottenheimer to his first NFL coaching position as the Giants linebackers coach. Schottenheimer calls Arnsparger one of his key coaching mentors of all-time.

Starting in 1950, Arnsparger served in college coaching positions at Miami of Ohio, Ohio State, Kentucky and Tulane before joining the Colts in 1964. He left the NFL in 1984 to become head coach at Louisiana State, where he guided the Tigers to an SEC championship, two Sugar Bowl appearances and a Liberty Bowl berth in three seasons (1984-86). He was athletic director at Florida from 1987-1991.

Personal: Arnsparger earned his bachelor's degree in education and master's degree in school administration at Miami of Ohio. He and his wife, Betty Jane, have a son, David, and a daughter, Mary Susan. David is entering his first season as linebackers coach at Wyoming.

Pete Carmichael, Jr.

Offensive Assistant/Quality Control
2nd NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Pete Carmichael, Jr., joins the Redskins as the offensive assistant for quality control. He will assist offensive coordinator Jimmy Raye, among others, by evaluating upcoming opponents and coordinating relevant game information.

Carmichael served in a similar position with the Cleveland Browns last season. Previously, he spent five seasons at Louisiana Tech (1995-99) mostly as the quarterbacks coach. During his tenure there, nearly every school passing record was broken. He began his coaching career in 1994 at the University of New Hampshire as an assistant offensive line coach. The Wildcats won the Yankee Conference championship.

Personal: A Massachusetts native, Carmichael played football and baseball at Midway (MA) High before becoming a four-year letterman in baseball at Boston College. As a senior, he was team captain, MVP and an All-Big East selection. He earned a degree in math in 1994. Carmichael and his wife, Tina, have a son, Pete, and a daughter, Allison.

Hue Jackson

Running Backs
1st NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: After 14 years of coaching in the college ranks, Hue Jackson steps into his first full-time NFL coaching position in charge of the Redskins running backs. One of his students will be Stephen Davis, who has rushed for 2,723 yards in the past two seasons. Jackson is an advocate of the West Coast offense, which meshes with Marty Schottenheimer's philosophy.

Most recently, Jackson spent four seasons as Southern Cal's offensive coordinator (1997-2000). He also worked with the quarterbacks two seasons and running backs two seasons. One of his colleagues at USC was Schottenheimer's son, Brian Schottenheimer, who coached the Trojans tight ends last season and is now the Redskins quarterbacks coach.

Prior to USC, Jackson led California's high-powered offense as its offensive coordinator, and was quarterbacks coach in 1996 when the Golden Bears won the Aloha Bowl. He also spent four seasons at Arizona State (1992-95), two at Cal State Fullerton (1990-91) and three at University of the Pacific (1987-89), all in various coaching roles on offense.

Jackson served as running backs, wide receivers and special teams coach of the World League's London Monarchs in 1991. He made a coaching stop in Washington, completing a summer internship with the Redskins in 1995. He held similar internships with the Los Angeles Rams (1990) and Arizona Cardinals (1992).

Playing: Jackson was a standout quarterback at Pacific (1985-86), throwing for 2,544 yards and 19 TDs in his career. He also lettered in basketball in 1986. He began his playing career at Glendale (CA) Community College (1983-84).

Personal: Jackson and his wife, Michelle, have two daughters, Jordyn and Baylee, and live in Ashburn, VA.

Jerry Holmes

Defensive Backs
3rd NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Jerry Holmes comes to the Redskins as the defensive backs coach, after serving in a similar capacity for two seasons with the Cleveland Browns (1999-2000).

Holmes endorses aggressive, physical football, the style he used during his playing days. He will teach his strategies to a talented corps of Redskins, including Pro Bowl cornerback Champ Bailey, 19-year veteran cornerback Darrell Green and hard-hitting safety Sam Shade, all of whom propelled a defense rated second in the NFL and first in the NFC against the pass in 2000. Holmes will also tutor cornerback Fred Smoot, the Redskins 2001 second-round draft pick.

Prior to his time in Cleveland, Holmes coached at West Virginia for four seasons. In 1996, his Mountaineers defense was rated No. 1 in the nation in total defense and fifth in pass efficiency. He also spent three seasons at Hampton University in Virginia, as linebackers coach and defensive coordinator.

Playing: Holmes played free safety for two seasons at West Virginia (1978-79) after transferring from Chowan (NC) Junior College. In the NFL, he played for the Jets (1980-83, 1986-87), Detroit (1988-89) and Green Bay. He also played for the USFL's Pittsburgh Maulers (1984) and New Jersey Generals (1985). In Pittsburgh, Holmes played for Head Coach Joe Pendry, who is in his first season as Redskins offensive line coach.

Personal: A native of Hampton, VA, Holmes earned degrees in business administration at Chowan and West Virginia. He is now working toward his MBA. He and his wife, Patrician Ann, have a daughter, Natasha Nicole.

Richard Mann

Wide Receivers
20th NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Richard Mann enters his first season as the Redskins wide receivers coach after two successful seasons in the same role with the Chiefs. Under Mann last season, the Chiefs gained 4,388 passing yards, the most all-time for the franchise. The Chiefs passing attack also produced 28 touchdowns, seven more than 1999 and 14 more than 1998. All along, Mann tutored such standout receivers as Derrick Alexander and Andre Rison.

Before coming to Kansas City, Mann spent two seasons (1997-98) as the Baltimore Ravens wide receivers coach. He helped Baltimore boast one of the NFL's most potent receiving tandems. In 1997, Derrick Alexander caught 65 balls for 1,009 yards and nine TDs, and teammate Michael Jackson caught 60 balls for 918 yards and four TDs.

Mann also coached the Jets wide receivers for three seasons (1994-96), helping develop two of the top pass catchers in the game today: Keyshawn Johnson and Wayne Chrebet. He also handled Jets tight end coaching duties.

Before that, Mann spent nine seasons with Cleveland (1985-93), where his head coach for four seasons was Marty Schottenheimer. Mann coached the Browns tight ends, one being Hall of Famer Ozzie Newsome, in his last four seasons. Mann's other NFL coaching stint was with the Baltimore/Indianapolis Colts (1982-84). With the Colts, Mann worked under Frank Kush, his college head coach at Arizona State. On the college level, Mann coached at Arizona State (1974-79) and Louisville (1980-81). He has spent 32 years in the coaching profession.

Playing: Mann was a three-year starter at flanker and tight end at Arizona State (1966-68).

Personal: A native of Aliquippa, PA, Mann and his wife, Karen, have four children: daughters, Deven and Brittany, and sons, Richard and Mario.

Greg Manusky

Linebackers
1st NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Greg Manusky starts his full-time coaching career with the team where he began his playing career: the Washington Redskins.

Manusky will be coaching the Redskins linebackers, part of a defensive unit rated No. 1 in the NFC and No. 4 in the NFL last season. He will work on developing outside linebackers LaVar Arrington and Shawn Barber, among other players.

Manusky's challenge will be to instill the same mentality in the Redskins that he displayed in his 12-year NFL career. A 6-1, 240-pound linebacker, he may not have had the natural athletic talent of some of his peers, but he made up for it by being a hard-nosed workhorse. He played in 113 straight games over more than seven seasons, a streak spanning from his last game in Minnesota in 1993 through his retirement with the Chiefs in 1999.

He played his first three seasons with the Redskins (1988-90), contributing to Joe Gibbs-coached squads that went 7-9 in 1988, 10-6 in 1999 and 10-6 in 1990. The latter team reached the second round of the NFC playoffs. Manusky played his next three seasons in Minnesota (1991-93) and his last six in Kansas City (1994-99). His Chiefs head coach for five seasons was Marty Schottenheimer.

Manusky was known as a special teams coach's dream. He tied or led Kansas City in special teams tackles in all six of his seasons there.

After retiring, Manusky considered coaching and volunteered to assist at Tampa Bay's 2000 training camp. He inquired with Bucs head coach Tony Dungy, his defensive coordinator in Minnesota, and ended up working with the linebackers and special teams units that summer.

Playing: Manusky was a four-year letterman at Colgate University, where he compiled a total of 408 tackles over his four year collegiate career.

Personal: A native of Wilkes-Barre, PA, he graduated with a double major in education and geology from Colgate. He and his wife, Laurie, live in Ashburn, VA with their sons, Colton and Jake, and daughter, Logan.

Kirk Olivadotti

Defensive Assistant/Quality Control
2nd NFL Season/2nd Redskins

Coaching: Kirk Olivadotti enters his second season with the Redskins after three years in college ball. He spent two seasons as the defensive backs coach at Indiana State (1998-99). Before that, he coached wide receivers and tight ends at Maine Maritime (1997). He was the defensive coordinator at St. Joe's (IN) before joining the Redskins.

Playing: Olivadotti was a wide receiver for four years at Purdue.

Personal: Kirk is the son of Tom Olivadotti, the current New York Giants linebackers coach who has also coached in Cleveland, Miami, and Minnesota. Olivadotti and his wife, Keely, live in Ashburn, VA.

Joe Pendry

Offensive Line
17th NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Joe Pendry begins his first season with the Redskins facing a formidable challenge. He is in charge of reorganizing an offensive line decimated with injuries last season. Center Cory Raymer, and guards Tre Johnson and Keith Sims suffered season-ending injuries, and Johnson and Sims left the team in the offseason. With many new faces, it will be Pendry's job to mold the line into a cohesive unit.

To achieve this, Pendry will apply his creativity on offense. In three prior seasons as Buffalo's offensive coordinator (1998-2000), he made dramatic improvements to the Bills offense. In 1998, Buffalo ranked sixth in the NFL in overall offense (25th in 97), third in rushing offense (14th in 97) and 12th in passing (25th in 97). Buffalo topped 300 yards of offense in 34 of 50 games under Pendry, including ten 400-yard games and one 500-yard game. The Bills offense was No. 6 in the AFC and No. 9 in the NFL last season.

Pendry began his pro coaching career in 1983 as offensive coordinator of the USFL's Philadelphia Stars. He was head coach of the USFL's Pittsburgh Maulers in 1984, where he coached current Redskins defensive backs coach Jerry Holmes. He jumped to the NFL in 1985 and became running backs coach in Cleveland, where Marty Schottenheimer was head coach. He stayed there for five seasons before joining Kansas City's staff as offensive coordinator in 1985, the same year Schottenheimer became the Chiefs head coach. He was with the Chiefs through the 1992 season before moving on to Chicago (1993-94) and Carolina (1995-97).

Pendry began coaching in 1969 at his alma mater, West Virginia. He coached the Mountaineers in different capacities before holding various coaching roles with the offenses at Kansas (1974), West Virginia (1976-77), Pittsburgh (1978-79) and Michigan State (1980-81).

Playing: Pendry played tight end at West Virginia (1966-67) until an injury during his sophomore year ended his career.

Personal: Pendry is a native of Matheny, WV. He and his wife, Sandi, have a son, Joe, and a daughter, Jill, and live in Orchard Park, NY.

Jimmy Raye

Offensive Coordinator
25th NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: When Jimmy Raye accepted the post of Redskins offensive coordinator, he brought with him 24 years of NFL coaching experience. He spent the past nine seasons with the Chiefs, where for seven seasons his head coaching colleague was Marty Schottenheimer. Raye was Kansas City's offensive coordinator for the last three seasons. Under his guidance, the Chiefs gained more than 5,600 yards in 2000, the second-most in team history, and posted 390 points in 1999, the third-highest scoring output in team history and its most prolific season in 32 years.

Raye joined the Chiefs in 1992 as an offensive assistant and tight ends coach. He later spent five seasons working with the running backs. He guided one of the NFL's most proficient rushing attacks and coached future Hall of Fame running back Marcus Allen for five seasons. Raye also honed the skills of three-time Pro Bowl fullback Kimble Anders. Raye stepped up to lead the offense starting in the 1998 season. The Chiefs reached the playoffs in six of Raye's nine seasons there.

This is Raye's fifth stint as an offensive coordinator in the league. He will inherit a Redskins offense rated fifth in the NFC and eleventh in the NFL last season. He held the same position with New England (1990), Tampa Bay (1985-86) and St. Louis (1983-84, 1991). Under Raye, the Rams ranked second in the NFL in rushing as 1984 as Hall of Famer Eric Dickerson became only the second player to ever top the 2,000-yard rushing mark with an NFL-record 2,105 rushing yards.

Raye is among the NFL's longest-tenured assistant coaches. He has also held posts with San Francisco (1977), Detroit (1978-79) and Atlanta (1980-82, 1987-89). On the college level, he coached at his alma mater, Michigan State (1971-75), and Wyoming (1976).

Playing: Raye played quarterback for Michigan State (1965-67), leading the Spartans to two Big Ten titles and the 1966 Rose Bowl. He started in the "Battle of the Century" against Notre Dame in 1966 that ended in a 10-10 tie. Converted to defensive back in the NFL, he played for Philadelphia in 1969.

Personal: Raye was born in Fayetteville, NC. He and his wife, Edwena, have two children: Robin and Jimmy, III, a former receiver at San Diego State (1988-90) and now the director of college scouting for the Chargers.

Dave Redding

Strength and Conditioning
18th NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Wherever Marty Schottenheimer has been as an NFL head coach, Dave Redding has been too. The and grinding of free weights. His program stresses flexibility, running, plyometrics, speed enhancement and proper nutrition. He redesigned the weight room at Redskins Park with a $250,000 makeover. It now features 37 tons of weights and dumbbells weighing up to 175 pounds apiece.

Redding took the same track in Kansas City, where his offseason conditioning regiment was one of the most widely attended programs in the NFL. In 1993, his NFL peers honored him with the Emrich/Riecke/Jones Award sponsored by U.S.A. Fitness.

Before becoming the Browns first-ever strength and conditioning coach in 1982, Redding served as strength coach at Missouri (1978-81) and Washington State (1977), where he also coached defensive ends. He began his coaching career in 1976 at his alma mater, Nebraska, as a 2001 Redskins are no exception, as Redding begins his first season in charge of the team's strength and conditioning program. He served in the same capacity with Cleveland (1982-88) and Kansas City (1989-98) while Schottenheimer was the head coach for both teams. The past two years, he worked as the national sports director for Advocare, a Dallas-based nutrition company.

Redding is determined to produce a group of stronger, leaner Redskins. Shortly after being hired in January, he initiated a program based on old-fashioned pumping graduate assistant under Tom Osborne.

Playing: Redding lettered for three seasons as a defensive end at Nebraska. He played with Walter "Wonderful" Monds, Jr., the father of Redskins 2001 sixth-round draft selection, Mario Monds.

Personal: Redding earned a B.S. from Nebraska in 1976. He has a daughter, Taylor Reta.

Brian Schottenheimer

Quarterbacks

3rd NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: Brian Schottenheimer begins his first season with the Redskins at the same time he is reunited in coaching with his father, Marty Schottenheimer. The younger Schottenheimer will oversee a Redskins passing attack rated fifth in the NFC and 10th in the NFL in 2000. He will work with veteran quarterback Jeff George, one of the best passers in the game today.

Schottenheimer has five seasons of coaching experience. He coached tight ends last season at Southern Cal. He was the wide receivers coach at Syracuse in 1999 and tutored Quinton Spotwood, who finished fifth on the school's all-time career receptions list. The 7-5 Orangemen beat Kentucky in the Music City Bowl.

Previously, Schottenheimer was an offensive quality control assistant with Kansas City in 1998 when his father was in his last season as Chiefs head coach. He analyzed and self-scouted the team's offense and evaluated video and computer data. In Brian's coaching debut, he was an offensive assistant with St. Louis in 1997, working closely with head coach Dick Vermeil and such respected offensive assistants as Jerry Rhome, Dick Coury, Jim Hanifan and Mike White.

Playing: Schottenheimer was a backup quarterback for three seasons at Florida (1994-96) under offensive guru Steve Spurrier. He played in 20 games, completing 25 of 38 passes for 290 yards with two TDs and one rushing score. He played on the Gators 1996 NCAA championship squad. He began his career at Kansas in 1992 before transferring to Florida. A 1992 graduate of Blue Valley High in Kansas, he led the school to a 12-0 record and the Kansas 5A State Championship as a senior.

Personal: Schottenheimer is single and resides in Reston, VA.

Kurt Schottenheimer

Defensive Coordinator

15th NFL Season/1st Redskins

Coaching: With 14 years of NFL coaching experience, most of it on the defensive side, Kurt Schottenheimer begins his first season as the Redskins defensive coordinator. He inherits a defense rated first in the NFC and fourth in the NFL last season.

Schottenheimer, the younger brother of Marty Schottenheimer, comes to the Redskins from the Kansas City Chiefs, where he coached for 12 seasons (1989-2000), ten with his brother as the head coach. He was the Chiefs defensive coordinator in 1999 and 2000 and helped return the team's defense to its opportunistic ways. In 1999, Schottenheimer's defense set a franchise record by producing nine defensive TDs, the NFL's best mark, after managing just one in 1998. Kansas City also led the NFL with a plus-21 turnover ratio and ranked second with 45 takeaways, 20 fumble recoveries and 125 points off takeaways. The Chiefs were second in the AFC in interceptions (25).

Schottenheimer joined the Chiefs as the special teams coach in 1989 and served in that role for six seasons (1989-94). He also coached tight ends in 1993 and 1994. He was the team's defensive backs coach in the next four seasons (1995-1998), a span when the Chiefs secondary helped the defense allow only 16.4 points, equaling the lowest mark in the NFL. Schottenheimer also helped mold defensive backs James Hasty and Dale Carter into perennial Pro Bowl players.

Before joining the Chiefs, Schottenheimer coached special teams in Cleveland (1987-88) when Marty Schottenheimer was in his final two seasons as Browns head coach. On the college level, Kurt Schottenheimer was the linebackers coach at Notre Dame (1986) under Lou Holtz and held the same position at Louisiana State (1984-85) under current Redskins defensive assistant Bill Arnsparger. He also assisted on defense for one season at Tulane (1983) and five seasons at Michigan State (1978-82). He began his coaching career as defensive coordinator at William Patterson State College in New Jersey (1974-75).

Barker is tied for fourth in the NFL with a team-record and personal-best 32 kicks downed inside the 20 (just three shy of the NFL record that was broken in 1999). He often punted from midfield and even inside the 40, as teams prided itself on field position (41 percent of his kicks were inside the 20, the highest of any NFL punter). Barker made the first run of his career for six yards on Sept. 26 vs. Tennessee but was forced out of bounds at the 2-yard line, on a fake field goal with 15 seconds left in the first half. He had an exceptional game at PIT (10/3) with six punts (of eight) downed inside the 15-yard line. He was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Week and received the special teams game ball. As a kickoff returner he continued to excel, returning 59 kickoffs for 1,480 yards and a 25.1-yard average with one touchdown, a 99-yarder at Indianapolis (12/27). His 25.1-yard average ranked him fourth in the NFC. He had a return of 30 or more yards in 11 of the 14 games in which he returned a kick. His 27.3-yard kickoff return average led the NFL for the second straight season, making him the first player to lead the NFL in kickoff return average in successive seasons since San Francisco's Abe Woodson (NFL) and Houston's Bobby Jancik (AFL) did so in 1962-63. He was tied for eighth in the NFL in points with SD kicker John Carney. He also kicked two game-winning FGs: a 31-yarder with ten seconds left in regulation in the Skins 38-36 victory over Carolina in Week 4, and a 27-yarder in the Redskins 23-20 OT win over Philadelphia in Week 11. He opened the 1999 season blazing hot, hitting his first seven FGs and eleven of twelve. He received a game ball for converting three of three PATs and two of two FGs, including a 50-yarder, in Week 3 at the Jets. He tried three 50-yard FGs vs. Chicago (10/31), hitting from 50 and 51 yards; the 53-yard attempt was blocked. After a three-week period in which he connected on half of his 16 attempts, Conway hit on five of seven to close the season. In the Redskins 26-20 win over the 49ers in Week 15 that clinched the NFC East title, he ignited the Redskins comeback from a ten-point, fourth-quarter deficit by kicking a 34-yarder. Earlier in the game, he made a 47-yarder. He went two for two in FGs in both Redskins playoff games. 1998: Conway, a free agent, was signed to the Redskins active roster on 11/13. 2000 Season: Davis helped fuel the NFC's fifth-rated offense. He rushed for 1,318 yards, third-best in the NFC, on a career-high 332 carries (4.0 avg.). He also gained 313 receiving yards on 33 catches, both career-high numbers. His total yards (1,631) was seventh-best in the NFC. He also became the fifth Redskin with back-to-back 1,000-yard rushing seasons; Terry Allen last did it in 1995 and 1996. He now has 3,538 career rushing yards, the fifth-best mark in Redskins history and one spot behind Earnest Byner (3,950). Davis also ran for eleven TDs, the second-most in the NFC, and has 33 on the ground in his career, the fourth-most ever for a Redskin. He scored 66 points, all on the ground, and has 28 TDs in his last 29 starts. He was second in the NFC with 71 rushing first downs and third in the NFC with 83 first downs overall. He converted seven of eleven third-down situations. He posted five 100-yard games, the first one in the season-opener vs. Carolina, when he rushed 23 times for 133 yards and scored on a two-yard run to cap the season's first drive. He had a solid all-around game in Week 3 vs. Dallas, gaining 91 yards on 25 carries with TDs on seven- and one-yard runs and catching a season-high five passes for a team-high 54 yards and three first downs. Two weeks later vs. TB, he rushed for a season-high 141 yards on 28 carries, including a season-long 50-yard TD run in the second quarter. It was the longest run the Bucs defense allowed all season. It was also the first of six straight games in which he scored. Davis rushed 23 times for 84 yards and scored on a twelve-yard TD run at the Eagles in Week 6. He added three catches for 37 yards. The next week vs. Baltimore, he gained 91 yards on 21 rushes and ripped off a 33-yard TD run in the fourth quarter that broke open a 3-3 game in the Redskins 10-3 victory. It was the longest rush Baltimore allowed in 2000. In Week 8 at Jacksonville, he ran 24 times for 114 yards, scoring on a one-yard run on the game's first drive and a 16-yard run in the fourth period that sealed the 33-16 Redskins victory. He ran 30 times for 124 yards with a one-yard TD in Week 10 at Arizona and caught two passes for 62 yards, including a career-long 39-yarder. Davis carried 19 times for 85 yards and caught three passes for 21 yards in Week 11 at St. Louis but suffered a hairline fracture of his right forearm while making a block. He returned to the game for six more carries but was ruled inactive for the next game vs. Philadelphia. He was third in the NFL with 1,073 yards rushing at the time. He wore a protective arm cast for the last four games and averaged only 42 yards in Weeks 13, 14 and 15. But in the season-finale, he rushed for 100 yards on 27 carries with a long of 22. It was the 11th time in his career he topped 100 yards.

Pro Career: 1999: Davis rushed for 1,405 yards, first in the NFC and third in the NFL behind the Colts Edgerrin James (1,553) and NYJ Curtis Martin (1,464). His yardage total was a Redskins single-season record, surpassing Terry Allen's mark of 1,353 yards in 1996. Davis also led the NFL with a 4.8 average per carry and 104 points, the most by a RB. He rushed for all of his TDs (17) and ran for a two-point conversion. He also gained 111 yards receiving and finished tied for fifth in the NFC with the Cowboys Emmitt Smith for total yards gained (1,515). He was named to the NFC Pro Bowl Team and received The Quarterback Club Redskins Player of the Year Award. After earning the starting RB position in training camp, he posted six 100-yard-plus rushing games, the first on opening day vs. Dallas, when he ran for a then career-high 109 yards. It was the first time a Redskins back ran for more than 100 yards in a game since Terry Allen in

Week 9 of 1997 vs. the Bears. The next week, Davis ran for 126 yards on 23 carries and tied a Redskins single-game record with three TDs. He was the first Redskin to record consecutive 100-yard-plus rushing days since Reggie Brooks in Weeks 7 and 8 in 1993. In Week 7 vs. Chicago, he ripped off a 76-yard TD run to ignite the Skins in their 48-22 win. He ran for 143 yards and two TDs on the day. After a season-low 33 yards in Week 8 vs. Buffalo, he rushed for 122 yards on 25 carries and two TDs in Week 9 at Philadelphia. He then rushed for 183 yards in Week 10 vs. the Giants, surpassing the 1,000-yard mark. He was named NFC Offensive Player of the Week and received a game ball. He rushed for a career-high 189 yards in Week 13 vs. Arizona. It was his sixth 100-yard-plus rushing game, tying him with Redskins great Larry Brown for the second-highest total of such games in team history. (Brown did it six times in 1970 and 1972, and Bob Goode did it seven times in 1951.) At the time, Davis led the NFL with 1,335 yards and appeared headed to the league rushing title. But after gaining 70 yards in Week 14 at Indianapolis, he sprained his left ankle early in the second quarter and left the game. He was ruled inactive for the final two regular-season games. He returned with a bang in the Redskins 27-14 win over Detroit in the NFC Wild Card Playoff, rushing 15 times for 119 yards and two TDs before leaving the game with a sprained right knee midway in the second quarter. His 58-yard run tied for the longest run in Redskins post-season history with Timmy Smith, who had a 58-yarder in Super Bowl XXII in January 1988. In all, Davis sparked the Redskins to a 223-yard rushing day, the third-highest total in the team's postseason history. 1998: Davis' playing time increased dramatically. He played in all 16 games and started twelve, including eleven at FB. He began the season as the back-up to RB Terry Allen. In the first four weeks, he carried the ball eight times for 25 yards. But in Week 5 vs. Dallas, he moved to FB and proved to be versatile in the Redskins backfield. Besides adjusting to his role as the lead blocker for Allen and Skip Hicks, he became a threat to catch the ball out of the backfield with his speed and good hands. In Week 8 vs. the Giants, he led the team in receiving with five catches for 65 yards, including a twelve-yard TD catch that helped the Redskins notch their first victory. It was his first TD of the season and his first career TD catch. Perhaps his best game of the season was in Week 12, when he was integral in a victory over

Oakland. He led all receivers for the second time that season, amassing seven catches for 110 yards, including a 19-yard strike for his second TD. He added a career-long catch of 30 yards. He had four catches for 62 yards in the Redskins win over Carolina in Week 14. He started at RB in Week 16 vs. Dallas due to injuries to Allen and Hicks. He rushed 17 times for 70 yards. For the season, Davis recorded career-highs of 21 catches for 263 yards and two TDs. He also rushed 34 times for 109 yards. He made five tackles and 21 blocks on special teams. His biggest play on special teams came in Week 9 vs. the Cardinals. He recovered a Redskins on-side kick with 1:04 left in the game that led to the go-ahead FG with :35 left. 1997: With Terry Allen in and out of the lineup due to nagging injuries, Davis' playing time rose from his rookie season. He rushed for 567 yards and three TDs on 141 carries. He was also a receiving threat, catching 18 passes for 134 yards. He got his first NFL start in Week 2 vs. the Steelers due to an Allen thumb injury in the game before. Davis had respectable numbers in the Week 2 loss, rushing 17 times for 66 yards with two catches for 20 yards. His big moment came in a Week 6 showdown with the Cowboys on Monday night. After Allen was injured early, Davis stepped in and rushed 22 times for 94 yards and two scores, helping lead the Redskins to victory. Davis started vs. the Oilers in Week 7 (13 rushes, 45 yards) and the Ravens in Week 8 (17 rushes, 59 yards). After returning to a reserve role for a few weeks, he started in Week 14 vs. the Cardinals in a must-win game, leading the team in rushing (20 carries, 92 yards) and receiving (six catches, 27 yards). He also started in Week 15 vs. NYG (ten carries, 41 yards) and in the season-finale vs. the Eagles (twelve rushes, 65 yards, one TD). 1996: Davis showed glimpses of brilliance playing behind Pro Bowler Terry Allen. He rushed 23 times for 139 yards (6.0 avg.). His 39-yard TD run vs. NYG was the team's second-longest run of the year. In the RFK Stadium finale, Davis came in late to rush eight times for 35 yards and his second career TD.

College/Personal: Davis gained 1,068 yards (5.9 avg.) and scored 14 TDs as a senior at Auburn. He was a consensus All-SEC First-Team choice. He tallied 17 TDs on the year, tying Bo Jackson's single-season school record. Davis ended his Auburn career fourth on the school's all-time rushing list with 2,811 yards, trailing Joe Cribbs, James Brooks and Jackson. An All-SEC First-Team pick by Football News and AP as a junior, Davis led the Tigers with 221 carries for 1,263 yards (5.7 avg.) and 13 TDs. He was named SEC Offensive Player of the Week after gaining a career-high 246 yards on 27 carries with TD runs of 1, 24 and 53 yards in a win over Arkansas. He saw backup action in nine games as a sophomore, gaining 480 yards on 87 carries (5.5 avg.) with three TDs. In his first college action, Davis gained 125 yards on 18 attempts with two TDs. He arrived at Auburn with fanfare. He was Football News National Player of the Year and USA Today Offensive Player of the Year as a senior at Spartanburg (S.C.) High School. He ran for a school-record 2,448 yards (9.2 avg.) and 32 TDs as a senior, leading the team to the Class 4A state title. His final prep numbers were 4,501 yards on 535 carries with 53 TDs and 5,425 all-purpose yards. In the state title game as a senior, he rushed 30 times for 230 yards and two scores. At Spartanburg, Davis won the state 100-meter dash title twice. He graduated with a degree in vocational education from Auburn. In 1999, Davis spearheaded the Redskins "Hometown Huddle" project with Habitat for Humanity when he helped build a home in Washington, D.C. He and his wife, Dee Dee, live in Herndon, Va. Formula for QB Rating

"Quarterback Rating" is the most complicated of the NFL's official statistics. The formula uses five factors: attempts, completions, gross yardage, touchdowns and interceptions. It was designed so that a score of 100 would mean "great", with 90 as "very good", 80 as "good" - similar to an A-B-C grading scale. It is possible to score over 100, a feat accomplished in 2000 by Redskins QB Jeff George (11/20 111.0, 12/3 100.0).

Here's the formula which works when entered into Microsoft Excel. Be careful, there are 196 characters which must be typed perfectly, without any spaces, in order to calculate correctly:

A1 = attempts; B1 = completions; C1 = gross yards; D1 = touchdowns; E1 = interceptions

2000 Season: Green showed no signs of slowing down at age 40. The "ageless wonder" played in his 18th season in Washington, tying him for third all-time with Jim Hart, Jeff Van Note, Pat Leahy and Bruce Matthews for most seasons with one team. He intercepted three passes, increasing his NFL record, with at least one INT in 18 straight seasons. He has 53 INTs and is tied for third with Eric Allen among active INT leaders. He holds the Redskins INT record (53) and has six more in the playoffs. He has picked off 41 different QBs. Green played in 13 games and started two, increasing his Redskins record for most regular-season games played (263) and started (250). He also made 23 tackles (20 solo), added ten passes defended and forced two fumbles. He posted three special teams tackles. Green backed up Deion Sanders most of the season at right CB. He didn't start on opening day vs. Carolina, breaking his streak of 119 straight games started, including playoffs. In Week 4 vs. TB, he intercepted a Shaun King pass in the first quarter and recovered a Keyshawn

Johnson fumble in the fourth in Bucs territory, leading to a Skins TD and a 20-17 win. Green was clutch again the next week at the Eagles. With :36 left and the score tied at 14, he picked off a Donovan McNabb pass and returned it 33 yards. The play set up Michael Husted's 24-yard FG that accounted for the Skins 17-14 win. Green strained a calf muscle in the first quarter vs. Baltimore in Week 7 and didn't return. He was inactive for the next three games but returned to make his first start in Week 11 on Monday night at the Rams, who opened with four WRs. He made a season-high five tackles (four solo) and defended one pass. He made his 250th career start in Week 12 vs. Philadelphia. In the season-finale vs. Arizona, he intercepted his third pass of the season and made four solo tackles.

Pro Career: 1999: Green played in his 17th season for the Redskins, establishing himself as the leader in franchise longevity. He surpassed 16-year Redskins Sammy Baugh and Monte Coleman. He started all 16 regular season games at right CB and intercepted three passes to set an NFL record for INTs in consecutive seasons (17). By the end of the playoffs, he'd started in 119 straight games and 265 of 267 games in his career, including 17 postseason starts. On the season, Green tallied 76 tackles (sixth on the team), 15 passes defended and one fumble recovery. He posted seven special teams tackles. He made seven tackles vs. Dallas (six solo) on opening day. Two weeks later vs. NYJ, he intercepted a pass. He also totaled five tackles and two passes defended in that game, earning a game ball. In Week 11 vs. NYG, Green caused an INT, intercepted his 49th pass and posted three solo tackles, two assists and one pass defended. He received another game ball after the Redskins beat Arizona in Week 14. He made his 50th career INT, two solo tackles and one assist. Showing no signs of slowing down, he made nine solo tackles in Week 16 at SF. He made four tackles in the Wild Card Playoff vs. Detroit and intercepted a pass in the Divisional Playoff at TB. 1998: Green was named a second alternate to the NFC Pro Bowl team after recording three INTs, 87 tackles and a team-high 22 passes defended. The speedster also saved TDs by chasing down some of the NFL's fastest men, including Jerry Rice, Napoleon Kaufman and Frank Sanders. In Week 2 vs. SF, Green made eight stops, including a TD-saving tackle from across the field on Rice. He kept dangerous Vikings rookie WR Randy Moss in check in Week 7. His first INT was in Week 12 at Oakland. He also made four solo tackles, deflected a pass that Shawn Barber intercepted and used his speed to catch Kaufman from behind. He was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week. His INT in Week 14 vs. the Panthers ended their final drive and preserved a Redskin victory. A week later, he intercepted a Trent Dilfer pass with 1:04 left that secured the Skins' 20-16 win over TB. 1997: Green went to the Pro Bowl for the seventh time in his 15th NFL season. He passed Monte Coleman in most games played for the Redskins (217) in Week 15 at NYG. In the season-finale vs. the Eagles, he intercepted a Bobby Hoving pass and returned it a career-high 83 yards for a TD. That play helped Green earn NFC Defensive Player of the Week honors for the fourth time in his career. In December, he received the "The USA Today 5th Annual Most Caring Athlete Award" for his community work, which includes his creation of the Darrell Green Youth Life Foundation and Learning Center. 1996: Green had one of his best seasons and earned his sixth trip to the Pro Bowl. He intercepted three passes and made 78 tackles (52 solo, three-for-loss). He started all 16 games, playing 1,141 of the team's 1,181 defensive snaps (96 percent). 1995: Green had one of the best games of his career vs. Detroit in Week 8. He intercepted three passes, returning one seven yards in OT for the game-winning TD, and made a season-high 12 tackles. 1994: Green led the Redskins with 20 passes defended. His season highlight was in Week 7 vs. the Cardinals when he had two INTs, including a 27-yarder he returned for a TD. The INTs were the 36th and 37th of his career, as he passed Brig Owens as the Redskins all-time leader. 1993: Green made 90 tackles, the most since his rookie year. He led the team with 13 passes defended and was second with four INTs. He recovered a fumble in Week 12 vs. the Colts and ran 78 yards for a TD, the longest such play in Redskins history. He was the only NFC player with two INTs in a game, picking off a pair vs. the Eagles in Week 3 and at TB in Week 12. 1992: Green broke his right forearm in Week 2 vs. Atlanta. He missed Weeks 3-10 due to the injury. He returned and crafted his top performance in Week 14 vs. Dallas: nine tackles, three passes defended and a key forced fumble on WR Michael Irvin in the fourth quarter. He missed the Skins first-round playoff win over Minnesota with a bruised heel but saw action the next week in a Divisional Playoff at SF. He didn't make the Pro Bowl for the first time since 1989.

1991: Green went to his fifth Pro Bowl and his second straight as a starter, and was a unanimous All-Pro. He tied for the team lead with five INTs, his best mark since 1986, and posted a team-high 21 passes defended. He intercepted two passes vs. both Detroit in Week 1 and Philadelphia in Week 5. His pivotal INT in OT vs. Houston in Week 9 led to the Skins game-winning FG. He was again superb in the playoffs with two INTs. He made a season-high ten tackles vs. Dallas in Week 12. 1990: Green earned his fourth Pro Bowl appearance. He was a First-Teamer on the All-NFC team for UPI, Football News and Pro Football Weekly; and a Second-Team All-NFL choice by AP. He began the year with INTs in the first three games, a career first. In Week 3 vs. Dallas, he had seven tackles and two passes defended and capped the Skins win with an 18-yard INT return for a TD. He made a season-best ten tackles and intercepted a pass vs. SF. He also had INTs vs. Phoenix and New Orleans to finish with four. He had an INT in the Skins playoff win over Philadelphia. 1989: Green had two first-quarter INTs vs. the Cardinals in Week 5. But he fractured a wrist in Week 7 vs. TB and was lost for the season. Despite missing the final nine games, he was third on the team with five passes defended. 1988: Green led the Redskins in passes defended (14) and made some timely punt returns. His 13- and 18-yard returns vs. the Steelers in Week 2 helped set up a FG and TD in the Skins 30-29 victory. He also made a 32-yard return vs. NYG. He broke a hand in the first quarter of Week 15 vs. Dallas and left the game, after which the Cowboys threw three TD passes to beat the Redskins, 24-17. 1987: Green made one of the most memorable plays in Redskins history in the NFC Championship game. He applied a last-second hit at the goal line on Vikings RB Darrin Nelson on a fourth-down play, jarring the ball loose and securing the Redskins 17-10 victory. Green played despite tearing rib cartilage the week before in a first-round playoff game. The injury occurred when he was returning a punt 52 yards for a TD in the Redskins 21-17 win over the Bears. His regular-season highlight was a career-high three INTs in Week 10 vs. Detroit. The last one was on the Lions final possession and preserved a 20-13 Skins victory. Green went to the Pro Bowl for the third time. 1986: Green earned his second Pro Bowl trip. In Week 2, his end zone INT with :30 left sealed a 10-6 win vs. the Raiders. A bruised shoulder in Week 12 vs. Dallas forced him from the starting lineup for the first time in his career. In the playoffs, he intercepted a pass to set up a go-ahead TD in a 27-13 second-round upset of the Bears. He intercepted five passes and forced two fumbles overall. 1985: Green posted a 13.4 average on 16 punt returns, the highest such figure by a Redskins player since Eddie Brown's 13.5 in 1976. He achieved that average though his punt returns of 99 and 73 yards were nullified. He also intercepted two passes. 1984: Green intercepted a career-high five passes and earned a starting Pro Bowl spot. He had 87 tackles and a team-high 14 deflections. He also had a dramatic performance that cemented his all-star selection. With the Skins trailing Dallas 21-6 at halftime in Week 15, he returned an INT 32 yards for a TD. He later stopped a Cowboys drive with an end zone INT, and the Skins rallied for a 30-28 victory. 1983: Green set the tone for his NFL career the first time he touched the football with a 61-yard punt return in a preseason game vs. Atlanta. A contract dispute with Jeris White thrust him into the starting lineup on opening day vs. the Cowboys, and Green showed his speed by chasing down Tony Dorsett on a long run. He finished No. 4 on the team in overall tackles (109) and first in solo stops (79). He earned a runner-up spot as AP NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year and was named to the Football Digest and AP All-Rookie teams. He returned an INT 72 yards for a TD in the Redskins 51-7 NFC playoff win over the Rams.

College/Personal: Green is legendary at Texas A&I, where he was named to the Football Coaches All-American Division II team with 56 tackles and four INTs in 1982. He was the Lone Star Conference Defensive Player of the Year. He had 76- and 96-yard punt returns for TDs as a senior. Also a legend on the track, his 10.08, 100-meter time was second behind Carl Lewis as a senior. Green was all-state in track and all-city in football at Jones High School in Houston. He has won the "NFL Fastest Man" competition four times over such notable track stars as Willie Gault, Ron Brown and Herschel Walker. Green earned the title of

"World's Fastest Athlete" in 1991. On the personal side, Green has dedicated his life to serving youth, and has demonstrated his commitment to the D.C. metro area by founding the Darrell Green Youth Life Foundation in 1988. The mission of the foundation is to open doors of opportunity for boys and girls whose circumstances limit their chances to lead educated, moral, well adjusted lives. The centerpiece of the foundation is the Youth Life Learning Center. The Center is a community based values-driven program intended to train this generation to be educationally, technically and morally excellent. Since the original center began in Northeast D.C. eight years ago, three additional centers have started in various cities around the country. The DGYLF annually hosts "Christmas with the Redskins" in conjunction with the McLean Hilton Hotel. During this special season, players from the Redskins and individuals from the community provide essential items for kids who live in Washington, D.C. area. Green has devoted his time working with the Big Brothers of America in the D.C. area, on anti-drug campaigns and other projects. Green has testified about drug prevention before a Senate Judiciary Panel and has been the Redskins representative in the NFL-sponsored United Way outreach program.

He completed his bachelor of science degree in general studies and social science on May 10, 1998, from St. Paul's College in Lawrenceville, VA. Darrell also holds an honorary doctorate from Marymount University in Arlington, VA. He's a native of Houston. He and his wife, Jewell, have three children: Jarrel, Jared and Joi. Wisconsin
Born: March 3, 1973

Career Highlights:

- Missed the 2000 season due to a torn ACL suffered in training camp, snapping his string of 37 straight starts, including two playoff games.
- Part of an offensive line that earned game balls after the Skins gained 395 yards in a 50-21 win over NYG (9/19/99).

- Played in all but one of the Skins 1,029 offensive snaps in 1998.

How Acquired: Drafted by Washington in 2nd round of 1995 (37th overall).

2000 Season: Raymer tore his ACL in training camp on 8/14. He was declared inactive for the first four games before returning to practice. He reinjured the knee on Sept. 28 and stayed on IR the rest of the year.

Pro Career: 1999: Raymer was a fixture on an offensive line that helped propel the NFL's No. 2-ranked offense, yielding only 31 sacks compared with a franchise-record 61 in 1998. He started all 16 regular-season games and both playoff games, reaching 37 straight starts. He earned a game ball, as did the rest of the offensive line, when the Redskins offense amassed 395 yards (164 rushing, 231 passing) in a 50-21 rout over the Giants in Week 2. 1998: Raymer was healthy for an entire season for the first time. He started all 16 games at center on an otherwise injury-plagued offensive line. He played in all but one of 1,029 offensive plays.

1997: Raymer played in six games as a backup to Jeff Uhlenhake. He started the last three games after a knee injury sidelined Uhlenhake for the rest of the year. 1996: Injuries sidelined Raymer for most of the season. He started the first five games, playing in every snap, until injuring his knee in Week 5 vs. the Jets. He returned to appear for three plays vs. the Colts in Week 8. But two days later, he suffered season-ending injuries in a serious car accident while returning from a fishing trip. He bruised his kidney, fractured vertebra and badly sprained his left shoulder when his vehicle turned over after he tried avoiding a car that crossed into his path. 1995: Raymer's rookie season began slowly when he broke an ankle in a scrimmage vs. the Steelers in the first week of training camp. He didn't play a down until making his first NFL start vs. Seattle in Week 11. He played the whole game.

College/Personal: Raymer was regarded as the premier center in college football as a senior at Wisconsin, earning unanimous first-team All-America honors. He was the first Badgers center since former Steelers great Mike Webster to earn All-Big Ten honors. The anchor of the Badgers offensive line, he helped Wisconsin finish ninth in the nation in rushing with an average of 240.8 yards per game. He was one of twelve nominees for the 1994 Lombardi Award, which goes to college football's top lineman. He started every game as a junior. He began his freshman year as a backup at center after first playing DT. He was enrolled in Wisconsin's College of Letters and Sciences. Raymer grew up a Dallas Cowboys fan despite living in the heart of Green Bay Packers country. A USA Today All-America Honorable Mention from Goodrich High School in Fond du Lac, WI, he was a consensus First-Team All-State pick at defensive tackle. He broke his thumb as a freshman and begged his parents to let him remove the cast and play. Before the season's final game, his parents relented, and he shed the cast for one day to play. He loves to ride motorcycles. He rides a Suzuki GSXR. His sister, Lisa, is a special education teacher in Chicago who brought her students to Badgers games. Raymer escorted the young visitors around the Wisconsin locker room after games. He once wrote a second grade paper of his intention to be a football player, noting that he wanted to play football on the moon. Raymer and his wife, Heidi, live in Sterling, VA with their son Dylan.

2000 Season: Samuels earned the starting LT spot in training camp and never relinquished it. He was one of only four players on offense to start every game, joining RT Jon Jansen, C Mark Fischer and TE Stephen Alexander. Samuels was a solid contributor from the start and improved as the season progressed. He went the first five games without allowing a sack before Eagles Pro Bowl DE Hugh Douglas overpowered him for two sacks in Week 6. Samuels shut out Douglas in the rematch in Week 12. Samuels won co-Offensive Rookie of the Month for October with Dolphins tackle Todd Wade. He missed the last three quarters in the season-finale vs. Arizona with a neck injury. Samuels also showed some speed. He and guard Tre Johnson chased down Lions DT Kelvin Pritchett after an INT and tackled him at the goal line to prevent a TD in Week 2. The Lions settled for a FG.

College/Personal: Samuels ended his celebrated career at Alabama by winning the Outland Trophy as college football's top lineman after his 1999 senior season. He was also a semifinalist for the Lombardi Award and a First-Team All-American. He was named First-Team All-SEC by coaches, AP, the Birmingham News and the Mobile

(He had arthroscopic surgery on his right knee as a senior and missed the Orange Bowl, Senior Bowl and NFL Scouting Combine.) He didn't allow a QB pressure in 1999 and had 91 knockdown blocks. He played nearly every offensive snap during the regular season and opened many holes for Shaun Alexander, who gained 1,383 yards rushing. As a junior, Samuels was Birmingham News First-Team All-SEC and an SEC Second-Teamer. He started all eleven games and played in every offensive snap except one. The coaches named him Second-Team All-SEC, an honor he also got as a sophomore. He made steady progress as a true freshman and started the last seven games in 1996. He played in 532 snaps, fourth on the team behind offensive linemen Pete DiMario (809), John Causey (771) and Laron White (641). He was a freshman All-SEC selection by the Knoxville News. He sat out the 1995 season as a redshirt freshman. Samuels majored in human performance at Alabama. He played offense and defense at John Shaw High School in Mobile, AL. He injured his neck late in his senior season and saw limited playing time. He still graded 90 percent or better in every game. He helped Shaw to an 8-3 record and a spot in the state playoffs. Samuels enjoys fishing, swimming and playing basketball. His brother, Lawrence, plays arena football for the New Jersey Red Dogs. Samuels lives in Ashburn, VA.

NFL Acquisition: Drafted by Buffalo in 1st Round of 1985 (first overall).

How Acquired: Signed as a free agent on Feb. 12, 2000.

2000 Season: Smith was an impact player in his first season in Washington and 16th overall. The pass rushing specialist tallied ten sacks, setting the league's all-time mark for most double-digit sack seasons (13). His sacks totaled 57 yards in losses for a defense rated No. 1 in the NFC and No. 4 in the NFL. He's in second place all-time with 181.0 career sacks and trails leader Reggie White by 17. He was a finalist for The Quarterback Club Redskins Player of the Year Award along with Marco Coleman, Stephen Davis and Champ Bailey. Smith was sixth on the team with 68 tackles (43 solo) and recovered a team-high four forced fumbles. He started all 16 games for the seventh time, compiling 229 career starts in a possible 233 games. The DE recorded a sack on his first play for the Redskins in a preseason game vs. NE on 8/11. He then dominated in his regular-season debut vs. Carolina, tying Bailey for the team-high in tackles (eight). He also had 1.5 sacks, including one where he dumped QB Steve Beuerlein for a 21-yard loss, a career-long for Smith. He was involved in one of the Skins most bizarre plays of the season in Week 5 vs. TB. He stripped QB Shaun King of the ball around midfield, appearing to end the Bucs final drive with about three minutes to play and the Skins up, 17-7. But King picked up the ball and threw a 46-yard TD to WR Reidel Anthony. Smith forced another fumble when he sacked Eagles QB

Donovan McNabb in Week 7. The next week, he tied his season-high for tackles with eight vs. Baltimore, propelling a Skins defense that held the Ravens to a season-low 199 yards. He saved perhaps his best performance for a Monday night game at defending Super Bowl-champion St. Louis in Week 11. He sacked Rams QB Trent Green three times, including one for a fourth-quarter safety that accounted for the final score in Washington's 33-20 win. He was named NFL Player of the Week for the ninth time, the most among active players. Smith had no sacks in Weeks 13-15, but he made the game's only sack in the season-finale vs. Arizona to reach ten and set the NFL record for most double-digit sack seasons.

Pro Career: 1999: Smith kept on track as Buffalo's defensive leader in his 15th season. He started all 16 games, posting 80 tackles, seven sacks, and 25 QB pressures. He and WR Andre Reed established a new Bills record by playing in their 15th seasons. Smith dominated the line of scrimmage vs. the Eagles (9/26), picking up his first sack of the season, forcing a fumble and ending an Eagles drive into Bills territory. He finished with six tackles, two QB pressures, one sack and one forced fumble. He had another impressive effort vs. Miami (10/10) with nine tackles, one sack, one forced fumble and one QB pressure. He made five tackles vs. Pittsburgh (10/10), which the Bills defense held to just 48 yards rushing. He again made nine tackles vs. Oakland (10/17) and had two QB pressures. He helped shut down the Ravens offense and recorded two tackles, two QB pressures, three knockdowns and one tipped ball. He recovered a fumble at Washington (11/7), and his two sacks vs. Miami (11/14) marked his 48th career multi-sack performance and the first one since NE (11/13/98). He also tallied five tackles, two QB pressures and one forced fumble. He showed his All-Pro form in NE (12/26) with eight tackles (six solo) and one sacks, and in the Bills playoff loss to Tennessee, finishing with nine tackles (seven solo) and 2.5 sacks to become the NFL's all-time playoff sack leader with 14.5. 1998: Smith was named to the Pro Bowl for the eleventh time and seventh straight time. He had ten sacks for his twelfth double-digit sack season. It was also his seventh straight ten-plus sack season, putting him in a current second-place tie with Lawrence Taylor. He started 15 games, missing the season-opener at SD (9/6) with a knee injury. RB Thurman Thomas also missed the game, marking the first time neither player was in the Bills lineup since 10/18/87, a span of 170 regular-season games. Smith appeared in Week 2 at Miami (9/13), tying for the team lead with a season-high ten tackles. He earned AFC Defensive Player of the Week honors for the eighth time in his career due to a terrific Week 4 game vs. the 49ers: six tackles, six QB pressures, one sack and one forced fumble. He had a season-high two sacks in Week 10 vs. NE (11/15). He played in his 200th regular-season game in Week 15 vs. NYJ (12/19) and joined Andre Reed and Jim Ritcher as the only Bills to play in more than 200 career games. He ended the regular season with a sack and fumble recovery in the season-finale at the Saints (12/16) and made his 19th career playoff appearance in a Wild Card game at Miami (1/2). 1997: Smith started all 16 games and finished with an AFC-high 14.0 sacks that tied him for third in the NFL behind Minnesota's John Randle and the Giants Michael Strahan. Smith's sack total tied for the third-highest in his career. He earned his sixth straight Pro Bowl trip and 10th selection overall. He had four multiple-sack games to raise his career total to 45. He opened the season with two sacks vs. Minnesota (8/31), then had 1.5 at NYJ. He had a season-high ten tackles vs. Detroit (10/5) and combined with Phil Hansen on the game's pivotal play. They tackled RB Barry Sanders in the end zone for the game-winning safety with just over 2:00 left. He had a season-high 2.5 sacks at Indianapolis (10/20) and was named AFC Player of the Week for the seventh time. He garnered AFC Player of the Month honors for October after notching 5.5 sacks, 33 tackles (28 solo) and nine QB pressures in four games. He received that honor for the sixth time. He made at least one sack in eight of the season's first nine games and had at least one sack in six straight games (Weeks 3-9). He sacked QB Dan Marino twice at Miami (11/17). He had postseason surgery to clean out his knee and shoulder. 1996: Smith had perhaps his best season, posting career-highs in tackles (120) and QB pressures (54). He was selected to a ninth Pro Bowl and was named NFL Defensive Player of the Year by AP, UPI, Pro Football Weekly, Football Digest, and College and Pro Football Newsweekly. He won the Mackey Award as the NFL's Defensive Lineman of the Year for the third straight season. He was named AFC Player of the Month for September and November and AFC Player of the Week for Week 11. He led the NFL with three blocked FGs (no other player had more than one) and led the AFC with 13.5 sacks. He made a key play when he hit Giants QB Dave Brown in OT and forced a fumble that Buffalo's Chris Spielman recovered to set up the game-winning FG (9/1). He had three sacks vs. NE (9/8), giving him 5.5 in the season's first two games. He blocked a FG in the fourth quarter at the Steelers (9/16) and blocked a 36-yard FG try late vs. Dallas (9/22). He moved into sole possession of second place on the NFL's all-time sack list with a sack in the fourth-quarter vs. Miami (10/13). At the Eagles (11/10), he sacked QB Ty Detmer on a fourth-and-goal from the three with :30 to play to help preserve the Bills win. He blocked his third FG at Indianapolis (12/1). He had his streak of consecutive games with a sack snapped at four at Seattle (12/8). He had four solo tackles and one QB pressure in an AFC Wild Card Playoff vs. Jacksonville (12/28). 1995: Smith had a marvelous season. He was named to his eighth Pro Bowl and was NFLPA Defensive Lineman of the Year. He led the Bills with 36 QB pressures and had his third 100-plus tackle season. He blocked his first career FG vs. Indianapolis (9/17). He made his first sack of the season at the Browns (10/2) and added a sack vs. Atlanta (11/12). He was the Miller Lite Player of the Game for his three-sack performance at SF (12/3). He had two sacks at the Rams (12/10), moving into third place on the NFL's all-time sack list. He was inactive for the season-finale vs.

Houston (12/24) because the game had no playoff implications. He had a team-high five QB pressures in the Wild Card Playoff vs. Miami (12/30). He was inactive for the Divisional Playoff (1/6) vs. the Steelers because of the flu and subsequent 104-degree temperature. 1994: Smith was a unanimous First-Team All-Pro and was named to his seventh Pro Bowl. Perhaps his most distinguished honor was being named a finalist for Miller Lite "Player of the Year." He was AFC Defensive Player of the Month for September and AFC Defensive Player of the Week when he had four solo tackles, two sacks, six QB pressures, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery vs. the Chiefs (10/30). He led the Bills in forced fumbles (five) and finished third on the team with 92 tackles. He intercepted his second career pass at NE (9/11) and was credited with a half sack of QB Drew Bledsoe in the end zone that caused a fumble. The Bills recovered it for a score. He tied his personal best of four sacks at Houston (9/18). He was inactive for GB (11/20) due to a shoulder injury, marking his first absence from the lineup since 12/20/92. 1993: Smith was again the NFL's best defensive player. He had 14 sacks, the league's second-best mark and No. 1 for the Bills. He won the George Halas Trophy as the Newspaper Enterprise Association's Defensive Player of the Year. He was named Defensive Player of the Year by Pro Football Weekly. He was voted to his sixth Pro Bowl but missed the game due to the birth of his first child. Smith led the Bills in QB Pressures (24) and was third in tackles (108). He was AFC Defensive Player of the Week in Week 8 at NYJ and AFC Defensive Player of the Month for October. He recorded his first career INT at NYJ (10/24) on a diving grab that sealed the victory. He made his 100th career sack vs. Washington's Mark Rypien (11/1). His six-game consecutive sack streak ended at Pittsburgh (11/15), a streak that matched his own mark in 1986 and Phil Hansen's in 1992. He made two sacks vs. the Raiders (1/15) to become the NFL's all-time playoff sack leader with eleven, overtaking Richard Dent (10.5) and Charles Mann (10). He added another sack in the AFC Championship game vs. KC (1/23). He was the NFL's Postseason Defensive Player of the Week after the Raiders game. 1992: Smith made his fifth trip to the Pro Bowl. He had eleven tackles (nine solo), three sacks and two QB pressures vs. Indianapolis (9/20).

1991: In the most frustrating season of his career, Smith appeared in only five regular-season games. He was sidelined after the first week of training camp when his knee was scoped. He returned in Week 5 vs. Chicago (9/29). He was inactive the next week at KC (10/7) and went on IR (10/12). He was activated on 11/30 and appeared in only his second game vs. NYJ (12/1). He played in all three playoff games at less than 100 percent but was still effective.

1990: Smith was arguably the NFL's most dominant defensive player. He was voted to his fourth Pro Bowl and was named Defensive Player of the Year by AP, UPI, Football News and Pro Football Weekly. He was Touchdown Magazine's Player of the Year, the NFL Alumni's Defensive Lineman of the Year and AFC Player of the Month (December). He was second in the NFL in sacks with a career-high 19.0, just one behind KC's Derrick Thomas. His 19.0 sacks set a Bills single-season record, breaking his own mark of 15 in 1986. He equaled Bills LB Cornelius Bennett's feat of being named AFC Defensive Player of the Week in consecutive games. Smith did it vs. the Colts (12/9) and NYG (12/15). He was second on the Bills tackle list (101). He completely dominated some games, such as at the Colts (12/9) when he sacked QB Jeff George four times. He made one of the biggest plays in Super Bowl XXV, sacking NYG QB Jeff Hostetler in the end zone for a second-quarter safety that gave the Bills a 12-3 lead. 1989: Smith became the Bills all-time sack leader upon his 52nd sack. He finished the season with 13.0. He broke the record vs. NYJ (10/22), when he made three sacks. He was a Pro Bowl starter for the third straight year. He finished fourth in team tackles (88, seven solo) and made a half sack in the playoff game at Cleveland (1/6). 1988:

Smith had a fantastic season that ended with Pro Bowl honors for the second time. He was the UPI AFC Co-Defensive Player-of-the-Year. He tied for second in sacks in the AFC with San Diego's Lee Williams (eleven). He played in only twelve games because he missed the first four after the NFL suspended him under its substance abuse program. He was ninth on the team in tackles with 56 but first in sacks. He made two sacks vs. the Bengals (1/8) in the AFC title game, though he missed some of the game with an injury. 1987: Smith earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl, where he was named MVP. He received multiple prestigious postseason distinctions, including the NFLPA Defensive Lineman of the Year. He led Buffalo with 78 tackles. His twelve sacks were the most by an AFC defensive lineman. He also had 17 QB pressures. He partially blocked a FG vs. the Raiders (12/6). He started the season with 13 tackles vs. NYJ (9/13). 1986: Smith had 15 sacks, tying with SD's Lee Williams for second-most sacks in the AFC. How Acquired: Drafted by Washington in 1st round of 1995 (4th overall).

2000 Season: Westbrook's sixth season in the NFL was cut short due to a knee injury (torn ACL) he suffered in the third quarter at Detroit in Week 2. Two days later on 9/12, he was placed on IR for the rest of the year. He underwent surgery on 10/10. Before the injury, Westbrook made five catches for 53 yards in the season-opener vs. Carolina (9/3) and four catches for 50 yards at Detroit. Seven of his nine catches went for first downs.

Pro Career: 1999: Westbrook elevated himself to a spot among the NFL's elite receivers. He started all 16 games and both playoff games, finishing sixth in the NFC and ninth in the NFL in receiving yards (1,191) and tying teammate Albert Connell for first in the NFL in average yards per catch (18.3). Both figures were career-highs for Westbrook, as were his receptions (65) and TD catches (nine). His receiving yards, TD catches and longest reception (65 yards) were No. 1 on the Redskins, and he tied Connell for No. 1 in yards per catch. He was second in total catches behind FB Larry Centers (69). Westbrook was also one of five finalists for the The Quarterback Club Redskins Player of the Year Award. Westbrook posted a career-high five games of more than 100 yards receiving, including the season-opener vs. Dallas, when he tallied a single-game, career-high 159 yards on five catches with one TD. His sliding, 41-yard TD catch from Brad Johnson cut the Cowboys lead to 14-10 in the second quarter. He caught a 15-yard TD in Week 2 at NYG and had his best game of the season in Week 4 vs. Carolina. He caught a season-high eight passes for 140 yards and a season-high two TDs, 17- and 11-yard second-quarter tosses from Johnson that helped the Redskins erase a 21-0 deficit en route to a 38-36 victory. By the end of Week 4, Westbrook led the NFC in receiving yards (442) and TD catches (four). He caught only six passes over the next two games but rebounded with a team-high five catches for 85 yards and a 13-yard TD catch in Week 7 vs. Chicago. Two weeks later at the Eagles, Westbrook tallied 152 yards receiving on four catches with one TD. His longest catch of 55 yards came on the first play from scrimmage, helping set up Davis' 1-yard scoring run. In the fourth quarter, Westbrook caught a 43-yard TD pass from Johnson that pulled the Redskins even at 28-28 before they lost 35-28. He made the catch sometime after fracturing a bone in his right wrist. He played with a cast on his right hand in the next game (Week 10) vs. the Giants, and caught one pass. In Week 11 vs. Philadelphia, he caught four passes for 51 yards. He caught five passes for a team-high 108 yards and a TD in Week 12 at Detroit and four passes for 52 yards in Week 13 vs. Arizona. Against Arizona, he topped 1,000 yards for the year, the first Redskins receiver to do so since Henry Ellard in 1996. In Week 15 at SF, Westbrook had a team-high 125 yards on seven catches, including a season-long 65-yard TD that gave the Redskins a 7-3 second-quarter lead en route to a 26-20 win that clinched the NFC East title. Johnson hit Westbrook in stride on the pass, the second-longest of Westbrook's career. Westbrook caught three passes in the regular-season finale vs. Miami and three for 26 yards in the playoffs. 1998: Westbrook was headed toward the best season of his career when a neck injury ended it. He played in 11 games with 10 starts and led the Redskins in receiving with 44 catches for 736 yards and six TDs. He also had a career-long 75-yard catch. The injury occurred in the first quarter of the Redskins Week 13 game vs. SD. He outjumped Chargers safety Charles Dimry for the ball but was slammed to the ground as he came down, and his neck jammed into the turf. Westbrook had surgery to fuse two vertebrae in his neck, after which he worked hard to rehabilitate himself. The season started well for Westbrook, who caught two passes for 73 yards vs. NYG in Week 1. He also had a TD called back due to a holding penalty. The next week vs. SF, he led all receivers with five catches for 109 yards. He posted a then career-high 132 yards receiving on seven catches with two TDs in Week 3 at Seattle. His 314 yards receiving after the first three weeks was the NFL's second-highest total. He posted his third-straight 100-yard receiving day in Week 4 vs. Denver, with three catches for 104 yards and a career high 75-yard TD catch. He had his fourth 100-yard receiving day in Week 11 vs. Arizona, catching 10 balls for 135 yards and three TDs, as the Redskins nearly pulled off the biggest comeback victory in NFL history before losing 45-42. Westbrook started fast in Week 13 vs. SD with two catches for 23 yards in the first quarter. But he injured his neck on his second catch, ending his season. 1997: In Week 3, the inaugural game at FedExField (then Jack Kent Cooke Stadium), Westbrook burned Arizona Pro Bowl cornerback Aeneas Williams for two TDs. The first one was a 7-yard grab in the first quarter to mark the first TD in the Redskins new home. The second was a 40-yard leaping catch in the end zone that gave the Redskins a 19-13 overtime victory. After starting Week 6 vs. the Cowboys on Monday night with two first-quarter catches, Westbrook injured a knee that sidelined him for the rest of the game and the next three weeks. He posted season-highs in catches (nine) and yards receiving (125) in Week 12 vs. NYG. 1996: Westbrook injured a knee in training camp, causing him to miss the season-opener vs. the Eagles. But he returned in Week 2 vs. Chicago, catching four passes for 38 yards. He started in Week 3 vs. NYG but aggravated the knee injury after catching two passes for 24 yards. He saw limited action in Week 7 vs. NYG before returning to the starting lineup vs. the Eagles in Week 11. The next week vs. SF, he set then-career-highs in receptions (seven) and receiving yards (126). But in Week 13 vs. Dallas on Thanksgiving Day, he suffered another knee injury on the game's second play. He missed Week 14 vs. TB but returned in Week 15 vs. Arizona with four catches for 59 yards. He started the last game at RFK Stadium, catching four passes for 80 yards in the Redskins win over Dallas. 1995: In just his second touch of a football in the NFL, Westbrook ran 58 yards on a reverse for a TD. Despite missing five games with knee and ankle injuries and playing in only 46 percent of the Redskins offensive plays (477 of 1,042), he proved his ability to make big plays. He produced twelve plays of more than 20 yards, averaging 15.9 yards every time he touched the ball. Of five runs by NFL WRs of 30-plus yards in 1995, Westbrook had two of them, a 58-yarder vs. Arizona in Week 1 and a 33-yarder to set up a TD in the season-finale vs. Carolina. He collected 91 yards receiving vs. Denver in Week 3 on three catches, including a 45-yard grab that set up a late first-half TD. He made his first career TD catch in Week 11 vs. the Seahawks, a five-yarder late in the game.

College/Personal: Westbrook is Colorado's all-time leading receiver with 167 career catches for 2,548 yards and 19 TDs. He earned first-team All-American honors from the American Football Coaches Association, Walter Camp Foundation and The Sporting News as a senior, catching 36 passes for 689 yards (19.1 avg.) and four TDs. He also was named to the First-Team NCAA Consensus All-America Football Team and was first-team All-Big Eight. His best day came vs. Michigan, when he caught seven passes for 157 yards and two TDs, including a leaping catch in the end zone for a 64-yard score with just :06 left that gave the Buffaloes a 27-26 win in Ann Arbor. He ended his career with a late TD catch in the East-West Shrine game. He finished the game with four catches for 60 yards and two TDs and was named game MVP. As a junior, he caught 33 passes for 490 yards and two TDs. Although Colorado was throwing less in its new option-style offense, he was still one of the Big Eight's most explosive offensive threats. He had a season-high six catches for 132 yards, including a 72-yard score, in Colorado's 31-14 win over Oklahoma. Westbrook set a Colorado school record with 76 catches for 1,060 yards (13.9 avg.) and eight TDs as a sophomore. He averaged 96.4 yards per game and 6.91 catches per game. Only six Colorado players had more receiving yards in a career than he had in that season. His top efforts included a school-record 11 catches for 186 yards and a 52-yard score vs. Baylor. He caught nine passes for 104 yards, including a 41-yard TD, in a 24-24 tie with Oklahoma. He caught eight passes for 135 yards vs. Minnesota, eight balls for 128 yards vs. Missouri and eight balls for 166 yards vs. Kansas. Westbrook played in every game and started four as a redshirt freshman, catching 22 passes for 309 yards (14.0 avg.) and five TDs. His five scores set a school record for a freshman. He majored in communications and sociology and was a member of Colorado's "Academic Starters" team. Westbrook was a prep All-American and earned All-Metro First-Team honors from the Detroit News while playing at Chadsey High School in Detroit. He made 120 catches for 1,764 yards (14.7 avg.) and 16 TDs, including an 87-yard score off a screen pass as a senior. He also competed in track, posting a career-best 6-7 in the high jump and 23-0 in the long jump. He played basketball and baseball, also. Westbrook holds a degree in Psychology from Colorado. Westbrook's older brother, Alonzo, is a reporter for a TV station in Dayton, OH. Westbrook was born in Detroit and has a daughter, Ky Lisa. He lives in Sterling, VA.

- Led the Redskins with eight sacks in 1999, matching his career-high, and was second with 43 QB pressures.
- Returned an INT 88 yards for a score vs. Chicago (10/31/99). It was the longest return ever by a Redskins defensive lineman.
- Played in more snaps (1,037) than any DT in the NFL in 1998.
- Made a career-high 60 tackles in 1998.
- Led AFC interior linemen in 1995 with eight sacks for Cincinnati.
- Volunteered to yield his starting spot vs. the Eagles (12/24/94) so Bengals great Tim Krumrie could start his last home game.

NFL Acquisition: Drafted by Cincinnati in 1st round of 1994 draft (1st overall).

How Acquired: Traded from CIN (2/26/98) for '98 1st- and 3rd-round draft picks.

2000 Season: Wilkinson started all 16 games for the third straight season and fourth time in five years. The DT posted 33 tackles (20 solo), 3.5 sacks for (-17.5) yards, two passes defended and one forced fumble. He made a season-high four tackles at both Dallas in Week 14 and at Pittsburgh in Week 15. He also notched a six-yard sack at the Cowboys. He had three tackles in each of three other games: at Detroit in Week 2, at the Eagles in Week 6 and at St. Louis in Week 11. He also tallied a seven-yard sack against the Lions and a three-yard sack at the Eagles. He posted a season-long nine-yard sack at Jacksonville in Week 8.

Pro Career: 1999: Wilkinson started all 16 regular-season games and both playoff contests, leading the Redskins with eight sacks to match his career-high from 1995. He finished second in QB pressures (43) and posted 43 tackles (28 solo) and a fumble recovery. He also intercepted his third career pass and scored his first career TD. In Week 7, DE Marco Coleman hit Bears QB Shane Matthews, and the ball fluttered to Wilkinson, who rumbled 88 yards for a TD. The play gave the Redskins a 14-0 lead in their 48-22 win. It was the fourth-longest INT return for a score in Skins history, the longest such return ever by a Skins player at home and the longest return ever by a Skins defensive lineman. "Big Daddy" had five tackles (three solo), two sacks, five pressures and a pass defended at NYG in Week 2, when he was awarded a game ball along with the rest of the starting DL. He had a team-high nine pressures, a sack, two solos and one tackle-for-loss vs. Arizona, and four solos, two assists and two pressures vs. Philadelphia. Against Detroit, he had six pressures and two assists. He made eight tackles in postseason play, five in the Divisional Playoff at TB.

1998: The Redskins acquired Wilkinson in an off-season trade with Cincinnati. He led the team in sacks (7.5), QB pressures (50) and tackles-for-loss (six). His 50 QB pressures were 30 more than the team's No. 2 man in that category, DE Kenard Lang. Wilkinson set career highs in total tackles (60) and solo stops (45). He had two passes defended, a fumble recovery and an INT. When DT Dana Stubblefield was lost for the season with a knee injury after Week 7, Wilkinson became the Redskins main playmaker on the defensive line. Over the last eight games, he had 35 tackles, five sacks, five tackles-for-loss, one INT and one fumble recovery. In the Redskins 28-25 win over Carolina in Week 14, he sacked Panthers QB Steve Beuerlein for a seven-yard loss on the last drive and finished with five tackles, one tackle-for-loss, three QB pressures and the crucial sack. The next week vs. TB, he posted similar numbers: five tackles, one tackle-for-loss, four QB hurries and a sack. Wilkinson intercepted his second career pass in Week 10 vs. Philadelphia. He picked off the deflected pass deep in Eagles territory and ran four yards before being tackled. The turnover set up the Skins first TD. He also performed well vs. NYG with 14 QB pressures, seven tackles and a batted pass. 1997: Wilkinson totaled 34 tackles and a team-high five sacks for the Bengals. He led Cincinnati's defensive line in sacks for the second straight season. In Week 5 vs. Jacksonville, he sacked QB Mark Brunell twice. 1996: Wilkinson led the Bengals in sacks for the first time with 6.5, including one in each of the first five games. He also led the defensive line with 44 solo tackles. He had 59 total tackles, one short of his current career-high. He opened the year with a season-high eight tackles, a sack and five QB hurries vs. the Rams. He completed his run of five straight games with a sack vs. Houston in Week 5. He made his first career INT vs. Baltimore on a Vinny Testaverde pass. 1995: Wilkinson set a career-high with eight sacks despite missing the last two games with a neck injury. His sack total was the most by a Bengals interior lineman since Mike Reid in 1972. His 18 QB hurries were second on the team. He had three two-sack games: both games against Jacksonville and Week 6 vs. TB. He made a season-high seven tackles vs. Seattle. 1994: Wilkinson became the first player the Bengals ever drafted No. 1 overall. He made 44 tackles and 5.5 sacks, playing in all 16 games with 14 starts. He led the defensive line with 19 QB hurries. He volunteered his starting spot in the season-finale vs. Philadelphia so Bengals great Tim Krumrie could start his final home game. Wilkinson still made two sacks in a reserve role. He had a season-high six tackles vs. Pittsburgh in Week 13 and made sacks vs. Seattle in Week 9 and Houston in Week 10.

College/Personal: Wilkinson played in 1992 and 1993 at Ohio State after being redshirted in 1991. He entered the draft after his sophomore season, when he was a consensus All-American and All-Big Ten player. He played on the scout team as a 348-pound OT during his redshirt season, then dropped to 300 pounds the next season and switched to defense. He attended Dunbar High School in his hometown of Dayton, OH. He teamed with Star Bank in Cincinnati to fund a charitable foundation named the "Big Daddy Fund," which encourages middle-school students to stay in school. His hobbies include playing golf and restoring old cars. He now has about a dozen cars, including two 1970 Cadillacs, a Chevy Impala, a '66 Cadillac, a Porsche and a '65 Buick Riviera. His wife's name is Shawnda. Both Wilkinson and his wife, Shawnda, are active in community outreach with the Redskins. The couple has four children: Brooklyn, Daniel Jr., Taylor, and Sydne. They live in Vienna, VA, during the season, and in Dublin, OH, in the off-season.

He began with a great game, making six catches for 64 yards vs. The Citadel (9/2). He was Second-Team All-ACC, finishing second in the conference and 17th in the nation in total catches. He ranked third in the ACC and 23rd in the nation in reception yards per game. He was tenth in the ACC in all-purpose yards, a major feat given that he gained all but one yard through the air. In the season-opener vs. Marshall (9/4), he set a school record with a career-high eleven catches for 111 yards. He caught ten passes for 122 yards against Duke. Jay Schroeder engineered a four play 63-yard drive ending with a Gary Clark 38-yard TD pass.

December 26, 1987 - Metrodome Washington 27, Minnesota 24

Jim Breech connected from 20 yards out seven minutes into sudden death.

November 4, 1990 - Pontiac Silverdome Washington 41, Detroit 38

Chip Lohmiller's 34-yard field goal 9:10 into overtime capped the Redskins comeback that equalled the team's greatest in history. Down by 21 points in the third quarter and 17 points entering the fourth, Jeff Rutledge's 12-yard run tied the game with :18 seconds remaining.

November 3, 1991 - RFK Stadium Washington 16, Houston 13

Darrell Green intercepted a Warren Moon pass which set-up Lohmiller's 41-yard field goal 5:01 into overtime moving the Redskins to a 9-0 record. The Oilers tied the game with less than two minutes in regulation and had a chance to win after Brian Mitchell fumbled the kickoff, but Ian Howfield's 33-yard attempt sailed wide left.

October 16, 1994 - RFK Stadium Arizona 19, Washington 16

Arizona scored the tying TD with :19 in regulation and scored the winning points with 4:56 in overtime. Arizona's game-winner was set up by Terry Hoage who intercepted a Heath Shuler pass and returned it 12 yards to the 23. Peterson kicked the game-winning 29-yard field goal.

October 8, 1995 - Veterans Stadium Philadelphia 37, Washington 34

Down 10 points in the 4th quarter, Gus Frerotte guided the Redskins back with a touchdown pass to Henry Ellard and Eddie Murray's 46-yard field goal tied it up with :52 left. In OT, Washington stalled on its opening drive and the Eagles' Gary Anderson won the game with a 35-yard field goal.

In one of the most bizarre games in Redskin history, the Skins led by 14 points in the fourth quarter only to squander the lead. The Cardinals won the coin toss, and drove to the Redskins 15, only to have Kevin Butler miss. The Skins' Scott Blanton booted the apparent 38-yard game-winner, but a holding penalty forced a retry from 48 that went wide left. Arizona then tried a 29-yarder that missed, only the Redskins were offside. Butler's third attempt was good from 32-yards.

November 24, 1996 - RFK Stadium San Francisco 19, Washington 16

September 14, 1997- Jack Kent Cooke Stadium Washington 19, Arizona 13

In the inaugural game at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium, the Redskins win with 13:24 left in OT when Gus Frerotte, sidestepping a heavy rush, throws a 40-yard strike to a leaping Michael Westrook in the end zone. The winning points were set up two plays earlier when rookie defensive end Kenard Lang forces a fumble and rookie linebacker recovers on the Redskins 35-yard line.

November 23, 1997 Washington 7, NY Giants 7

In overtime the Redskins turn the ball over three times, but the defense forces two punts and the Giants miss a 54-yard field goal. With under two minutes remaining, the Redskins drive to the Giants 36-yard line but a 54-yard field goal attempt falls short with :11 seconds left in overtime.

HAIL TO THE REDSKINS

*"Hail to the Redskins!
Hail Victory!
Braves on the warpath,
Fight for old D.C.!*

*Run or pass and score
we want a lot more!
Beat 'em Swamp 'em Touchdown
let the points soar!*

*Fight on, Fight on,
Til you have won,
Sons of Wash-ing-ton!"*

On August 17, 1938, "Hail to the Redskins" made its debut as the official fight song of the Washington Redskins. The song was written by renowned band leader Barney Breeskin and the lyrics were penned by Hollywood movie star Corinne Griffith, the wife of team founder and owner, George Preston Marshall. FedExField®

FedExField

FedExField is the premier stadium in the National Football League. Located in Landover, MD, the privately financed FedExField was completed in a record 17 months and hosted the Redskins home opener in 1997 - a 19-13 overtime win against the Arizona Cardinals.

The stadium is located on a 200-acre site and is the largest outdoor stadium in the NFL with over 86,000 seats - nearly 5,000 more than the next largest, the Pontiac Silverdome - and parking for more than 22,000 cars. FedExField is one of just two stadiums in the League with three tiers of luxury suites, a total of 234. Suites are equipped with restrooms, refrigerators, televisions, two rows of seats, bar stools and a lounge area. A full range of catering options are available for game day entertaining.

FedExField increased the Redskins attendance capacity by over 40% when the team left RFK Stadium after 1996. Nevertheless, the Redskins have sold out every home game for the past 34 seasons (262 regular season and 13 playoff games) including all 33 contests at FedExField. All eight games for the 2001 season are sold out, as well as both pre-season contests.

Construction on FedExField began in March 1996 and cost $250 million. The following year, $30 million was spent to create a 170,000 square-foot atrium encircling the entire stadium, making the Joe Gibbs Club Level the most spectacular in the league.

When Daniel M. Snyder became the Redskins owner in July 1999, one of his first tasks was to make additional improvements to FedExField. Immediately, millions of dollars were invested in such projects as replacing metal rails with glass rails in order to provide unobstructed sight lines in the stadium bowl. The sound system was significantly upgraded and the parking lot was re-structured and re-routed to greatly improve the traffic flow on game days.

After his inaugural season, Snyder spent over $20 million to enhance FedExField. Over the past two seasons, a number of changes have been implemented to improve the Game Day experience at a total cost of more than $50 million. Escalators have been installed for fans in the upper tier, as well as a 3,000-foot circumference wind-screen around the top of the stadium to improve fan comfort. The spectacular new Owner's Club Suite Level was created, which is also home to the 250-seat press box, new for the 2001 season. Seats have been added to the general admission, Club and Loge levels, and a sophisticated radiant heating system has been installed throughout the Loge level. The Hall of Fame Store has been remodeled and completely re-merchandised with new Redskins products. Finally, the field has been improved and re-sodded.

Recommended Routes

FedExField is conveniently located for fans in Washington DC, Maryland and Virginia.

The Redskins opened with a thrilling 19-13 overtime victory over the Arizona Cardinals in front of a record crowd of Washington fans.

In their first game at their new home, the Redskins were forced into overtime when Cardinals kicker Kevin Butler connected on a 47-yard field goal to tie the score with just two seconds remaining.

The Cards won the toss to start the extra period, but rookie defenseman Kenard Lang stripped Arizona running back Leeland McElroy of the football, and Derek M. Smith recovered for the Redskins on the 35-yard line. Quarterback Gus Frerotte was sacked on first down, but on the next play, he found Michael Westbrook in the endzone for a game-winning 40-yard touchdown.

Welcome to Redskin Park

Rising from a former dairy farm and set on a picturesque 162 acres of land in Ashburn, Virginia, Redskin Park is the Washington Redskins' training facility.

The Redskins' home since August of 1992, the state-of-the-art NFL complex features four football fields (three natural grass and one turf), strength training and sports medicine facilities, accommodations for electronic and print media and ample parking. The building amasses some 65,000 square feet. Located in Beaumeade Corporate Park near the intersection of Virginia State routes 28 and 625 (Waxpool Road), the two-story concrete and glass structure houses the front office and coaching staff, as well as team meeting rooms, an auditorium, player and staff locker rooms, a strength and conditioning center, an equipment room, training rooms, and the video studio. The training room also has an X-ray room and dentist office, in addition to private examination rooms for doctors. The public area of the building consists of large hallways and high ceilings with natural lighting.

The upper floor consists of a large, 105-seat multi-purpose auditorium, used for team-meetings, press conferences and film sessions, with connecting meeting rooms for offensive and defensive coaches and players. Coaches, as well as the scouting department, have their offices and video rooms on this floor.

The club's finance, marketing, public relations and administrative offices are also located on the upper floor. An adjacent media room has individual cubicles furnished with desks and electrical outlets for beat reporters. The media room, as well as the auditorium and the locker room, is pre-wired for direct television uplink.

For the first time in the history of the organization, the 2000 season opened at Redskin Park, as the team held its training camp at team headquarters. The Washington Redskins conducted its usual training camp regimen at the facility, but added a fan village that included a Redskins store, a Redskins restaurant and the renowned NFL Experience. Hosting training camp in Ashburn enabled thousands of fans from all over the Washington, D.C., area to visit Redskin Park, watch their favorite players just feet from the practice field, get autographs each day and take part in the Redskins experience.

This year the Redskins organization chose to re-establish a 32-year tradition by returning training camp back to Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA.

Redskins Read uses the influence of Redskins players to promote literacy and reading by encouraging youth to visit their local libraries during the summer months. In addition to distributing over one million posters and bookmarks featuring Redskins players, by the end of summer 2001, the Redskins ReadMobile will have made 100 appearances at local libraries and distributed 25,000 new books to children living in book deficient environments.

The Fourth & Life High School Football Forum utilizes Redskins players and coaches to prepare local high school athletes for life after football, and teaches youth valuable life lessons that can be applied both on and off the gridiron. In December 2001, these high school athletes and their coaches will be invited to attend a forum at FedExField, where the students will have the unique opportunity to listen to Redskins players and coaches discuss their personal experiences.

Redskins All-Stars is a contest designed to inspire, encourage and reward kids for getting involved in community service.

Youth organizations that register for the program receive a $100 Home Depot seed grant from the Redskins to help kick off a community project such as garden plantings or community center restorations. The Leadership Council will award $50,000 to those organizations whose projects leave lasting impressions upon the community. Redskins' players will make appearances at numerous project sites to reward area youth for their commitment to community service.

Fields For Tomorrow is a truly unique football field renovation program that represents a $500,000 commitment to improving the condition of youth football fields throughout the area. To support this effort, the NFL Youth Football Fund has pledged $200,000 to this effort in addition to the $300,000 commitment by the Leadership Council. Under the supervision of the Washington Redskins Grounds Crew, who maintain FedExField, ten youth football fields will be completely renovated over the next two years.

An integral part of every Redskins game at FedExField is the dedicated staff of statisticians and assistants that monitor every snap, tackle, pass and catch that takes place on the playing field. The Redskins stats crew is responsible for generating official game stats, compiling and inputting play-by-play information into a computer database that quickly makes the data available for use by team coaches, the NFL and the media. Jon Stratton heads up the group, beginning his fifteenth year of service. His crew is among the League's best, with more than 95 years of combined experience.

REDSKINS GROUNDS CREW

Under the supervision of Head Groundskeeper Don Follett, the playing surface at FedExField is among the very best in the NFL, and has earned Follett numerous invitations to prepare Super Bowl and Pro Bowl playing fields. The Redskins Grounds Crew is responsible for ensuring that the playing fields at FedExField and Redskin Park are in smooth, safe condition and able to withstand the rigors of NFL football. They work year-round operating the high-tech irrigation system under FedExField, fertilizing, mowing and chalking the field to keep it in top playing condition. Last year, the Grounds Crew got involved in the community as well, helping renovate a dilapidated field at Spingarn High School in northeast D.C. The project was so successful that it has inspired the Washington Redskins Leadership Council's Fields For Tomorrow program.

THE WASHINGTON REDSKINS MARCHING BAND

The Redskins Marching Band begins its 63rd year leading sell-out crowds at FedExField in the team fight song, "Hail to the Redskins." With bandmaster Billy Ball directing, it is one of just two pro football marching bands still in existence today. The all-volunteer ensemble formed in 1937, when George Preston Marshall brought the team to Washington, D.C., with the goal of entertaining fans from the moment they walked into the stadium until the time they left to go home. For more than six decades, the Marching Band has taken great pleasure in entertaining fans with their pre-game and halftime shows. Over the years, the Band has marched between train stations and stadiums before notable games, down Broadway before a New York Giants game in the early 1960s, and around the concourse of Tampa Stadium during Super Bowl XVIII.
